The Colonel and His Dog Were Always Up Front...Until

ON ROUTE 13, Vietnam (AP) — He ran straight into an exploding rocket. At his heels was a gray mongrel dog, his constant companion in many battles. It died with him.

"He was right up front to get the attack going," said the officer who replaced him on the spot. "He didn't have to be right up here, but that's the kind of man Col. Willey was. His courage and sheer presence made all the difference.

Lt. Col. Burr M. Willey, 44, from Ayer, Mass., was one of a handful of Americans still seeing front-line action in Vietnam. He was part of the small team of advisers to the South Vietnamese 21st Infantry Division which has been fighting for two months to raise the siege of An Loc.

About noon Monday it seemed that the final push was near. Willey and other advisers persuaded the Vietnamese to use their tanks and rangers in an attempt to end the month-long deadlock.

As the heavy vehicles lumbered northwards past his command bunker at Chon Thanh, Willey shouted gleefully, "At last they're moving."

He jammed on his steel helmet, tugged on his flak vest, climbed into his jeep and said, "I'll be back in half an hour." Two hours later a helicopter was to fly him to Saigon for a week's respite from the battlefront.

As his jeep began to move off, he called out, "Come on, Moose." Out of the bunker dashed a streak of dirty gray fur. It jumped between the radios in the back seat, and the jeep raced off.

"I inherited Moose in the Delta," Willey had said half an hour earlier. "And he has never gone from my side. He insists on riding the helicopters with me. We even made the newspapers together," he laughed, showing a clipping.

South Viet marines push further into Quang Tri Province. Story on page 30.

It was an Associated Press Wirephoto showing Willey shooting his rifle, his barking dog behind him. The picture was taken on May 13, a few yards from where they were to die together.

Willey bypassed the tanks strung along Route 13 and swung off the road near a forward position called the Anthill. Bending low to avoid snipers, he ran forward to join a battalion adviser, Maj. Thyrone Henderson of Lexington, Ky., in his foxhole.

"We heard the first rocket round come in behind us and looked back," Henderson recalled. "It hit near the Vietnamese command group. Willey started back to see if anyone had been hurt and to take over if needed.

"I was five or ten yards behind. There was a terrific explosion just in front of him. I heard the dog yelp in pain. When the dust settled, Col. Willey was lying on the ground and I knew it was instant death. The dog tumbled into a bomb crater."

While Henderson wrapped the dead colonel in a poncho, the rockets continued to fall. Within minutes, nine Vietnamese were dead and two were wounded. The drive collapsed, and the tanks and rangers pulled back.

Willey's friend and superior officer, Col. J. Ross Franklin, who had been at the side of the road, loaded the body on the hood of his jeep. Grim-faced, he raced southward, headlights flashing.

An American medical evacuation helicopter met them two miles down the road. Franklin grabbed one side of a shrapnel-shredded stretcher and loaded his dead officer aboard.

Eight wounded Vietnamese crawled aboard, and some sprawled across the colonel's litter.

"This was his third Vietnam tour," Franklin said as the helicopter lifted off. "He was an old soldier just doing his job."

McGovern Seeks 200 Delegates

State Primary Underway

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. George McGovern hopes to win 200 more delegates over scattered opposition today in a New York primary that could give him nearly half the remaining votes he needs to capture the Democratic presidential nomination.

(In the area, polls opened at noon and will close at 9 p.m. as voters select state and national candidates.

Affecting residents of Kingston and the towns of Esopus, Lloyd, Marlboro, New Paltz, Plattekill, Rosendale and Shawangunk in Ulster County is the Republican race for nomination as state senate candidate. Sen. Richard Schermerhorn (R-C) of Cornwall faces attorney Anthony Barone of Monroe, an Orange County legislator. The race has been the target of a bitter behind-the scenes struggle between Schermerhorn and Orange County GOP chairman William Doulin, who objects to Schermerhorn's acceptance of Conservative backing.

Schermerhorn has the support of Ulster County Republicans while Barone is backed by the Orange County GOP.

The Republican race in the newly formed 26th Congressional District pits Benjamin A. Gilman, a lawyer and state assemblyman from Middletown, against Yale Rapkin of New City in Rockland County, another lawyer. Rapkin has the endorsement of Ulster, Orange, and Rockland County Conservatives.

The Ulster County towns of Marlboro, Plattekill and Shawangunk are part of the new district.

Democrats will select three candidates for Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals from a field of four candidates headed by Justice Lawrence H. Cooke of Monticello, well know in Ulster County. Others are Bernard S. Meyer of Cedarhurst, L.I., Henry Martuscello of Brooklyn, and Nanette Bedditz of New York City.

Ulster County will also particpate in the race for the Democratic nomination in the 99th Assembly District, where Philip Magnarella and Satiro Kazolias, both of Poughkeepsie, are vying for the nod. Kazolias has said he will run on the Liberal ticket in November if he is defeated.

The 99th District includes the Ulster County towns of Esopus, Lloyd and Marlboro).

With 41 of his delegates unopposed and many others facing only token opposition, including some organization rivals that would back him also, McGovern appeared certain to win a substantial majority of the 248 delegates being elected in the last of 23 presidential primaries.

Margaret Chase Smith wins Maine primary by better than 2-1 margin. Story on Page 3.

The South Dakota senator said it would be a setback if he won less than 200 of New York's total of 278 delegates. The last 30 will be allocated by the Democratic state committee in the same proportion as the elected delegates.

With only a handful of other delegates yet to be selected in other states, McGovern's first-ballot strength stands at 1,072.3 votes—436.7 short of the 1,509 needed to capture the nomination.

The names of presidential candidates don't appear on the ballot in New York, where voters in each of 39 congressional districts will pick delegates and alternates. They'll have to know before they go in the booth which delegates favor which candidate.

Republicans are picking 78 of their 88 delegates, with supporters of President Nixon expected to win most of them.

Besides the presidential delegate races, a number of hot congressional races are being decided. In two New York City districts, liberal incumbents have been thrown together by reapportionment. Reps. William F. Ryan and Bella Abzug in a mainly Manhattan district and Reps. Jonathan Bingham and James Scheuer in the Bronx.

McGovern has spent most of the past week in New York, campaigning hard to prevent any loss of momentum after his June 6 victory in California that gave him that state's 271 delegates.

His supporters are running for 237 of the 248 delegate spots in all of New York's 39 congressional districts but two, one represented by Rep. Shirley Chisholm of Brooklyn, a black who is also a presidential candidate, and the one of Rep. Herman Badillo of the Bronx, the only Puerto Rican congressman.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, who has more than 80 delegates on the ballot in suburban and upstate districts, made a campaign appearance in Buffalo Sunday to remind potential supporters he is still in the presidential race.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, a distant second to McGovern in the delegate race, told a Washington news conference Monday he hopes New Yorkers will vote for anti-McGovern slates if they have doubts about his positions on major issues.

McGovern replied in a statement early today that Humphrey is "undermining his reputation and jeopardizing his party by the kind of misleading statements he has been making about my positions."

"I am afraid that my old friend has forgotten that there is such a thing as wanting too much to be elected," he added.

There are no Humphrey delegates on the New York ballot.

Ratification With Teachers Adds $375,000 to Budget

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

Monday's ratification of the 1972-73 contract between the Kingston Teachers Federation and the Board of Eduaction will add an extra $375,000 to the still tentative budget of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated.

That swells the proposed budget to $16.9 million, with the Civil Service Employes Association, middle management personnel and higher echelon administrators yet to agree on terms for new contracts.

The teachers will recieve a 5.5 per cent across-the-board pay hike next year; or an increase of $300 in the base pay of each teacher. In addition, some 169 teachers who have reached the top of the increment scale will receive an extra $200 a year.

William Turcotte, Associate Superintendent for Personnel who served as chief negotiator for the board, termed the new contract "reasonable." Barbara Kleckner, president of the Kingston Teachers Federation, said the agreement was "satisfactory."

"It would have been nice to come in for less money," said Turcotte, "but considering the inflationary factor and the tight money situation, we think the contract is reasonable. We're very pleased."

"We're not thrilled, but we'll take it," said Miss Kleckner. "It's not all that we hoped for. It amounts to about a $10 a week raise, and that's not much."

The contract was ratified by the teachers on June 14. Of the 661 members of the Federation, about half attended the ratification meeting and they voted, by an overwhelming majority, to approve the contract.

The Board of Education met in special session Monday, and ratified the agreement by a 5-1 margin. The motion to ratify was made by Milton Reynolds, seconded by Mrs. Evelyn Corsones and supported by Thomas Reynolds, C. Lester Legg and H. Peter Hoffman. Harold Keator was the only dissenter. Joseph Feraca and Mrs. Marianne Darrow were absent.

According to Turcotte, the new agreement adds about $375,000 in new money to the 1972-73 district budget, including salary increments. District teachers, with the $300 raise, now earn a base pay of $8,050 at the lowest level.

According to Miss Kleckner, the teachers obtained several significant non-monetary advances with the new contract. The board's negotiationg team agreed to a revised maternity leave policy that no longer stipulates at what point in pregnancy the woman must leave; a provision that provides full pay, with no loss of sick leave, for on-the-job injury; and a clause that stipulates that the Board of Education cannot make any staff reductions without prior consultatin with the Teachers Federation.

The two sides also agreed to a one-year moratorium on sabbaticals, but the board would not consent to participation in an emloye benefit fund.

Miss Kleckner said the teachers were not "thrilled" with the monetary provisions of the new contract. "We figure we're breaking even or losing money as individuals," she said, pointing to inflation, cost of living increases and higher taxes.

Both sides said that negotiations, which began in April, proceeded smoothly, and that there were no irreconciliable points. Kingston is one of the few school districts in Ulster County not to have its negotiations reach impasse and mediation.

The new contract takes effect July 6, the date of the district's annaul re - organizational meeting. At Monday's session of the board, Reynolds said the annual meeting would be postponed from June 29 to July 6. The board will now meet on both dates, but will re-organize on July 6.

Pilots End Their 24-Hour Walkout

By United Press International

Pilots went back to work today, ending a 24-hour worldwide strike demanding stronger action against airline hijackers. The walkout hit hard in Europe, Canada and South America, but the United States and Asia suffered only minor disruption.

The strike ended at 2 a.m. EDT.

In the United States, where the Supreme Court ordered pilots to remain on the job, only 1,500 Eastern and Northeast Airlines flights were canceled. All other U. S. carriers—including Pan American World Airway and Trans World Airlines, which fly abroad—operated normally.

Eastern said it was resuming normal service with the end of the strike and had used the past 24 hours to carry out maintenance work on its planes.

Canadian pilots joined the walkout.

The strike grew out of demands by the International Federation of Airline Pilots (IFALPA) that the United Nations take some action to stop airline hijacking. When the U.N. Security Council failed to take action by Monday despite several meetings between pilots' representatives and U.N. officials, the walkout was called.

However, members of the U.N. Security Council—composed of permanent representatives from the United States, the Soviet Union, China, Britain and France and 10 temporary members—met Monday and planned another meeting today. U.S. Ambassador George Bush said after the closed meeting Monday that the five permanent members were not far apart on a line of action, but did not give details.

IFALPA has threatened further strikes if the United Nations does not agree on some sort of international solution to the problem.

While most U.S. passengers were not inconvenienced, flights in Europe came almost to a standstill except in the Arab countries, where officials claimed the strike had "political implications," and in the Soviet Union, where the strike was ignored.

Paris' big Orly field was all but deserted, as were Rome's Leonardo da Vinci and Tel Aviv's Lod. The British Airline Pilots Association left it up to its members whether to fly or not and only 154 of 522 scheduled flights on British carriers left London's Heathrow Airport.

Other airports that had almost no traffic were in Stockholm, Madrid, Brussels, Athens, Johannesburg, Belgrade, Zurich, Vienna and Frankfurt. Lisbon operated normally, as did Warsaw, which reported only one cancellation.

In Latin America, Mexico City closed its airport for the day, as did Montevideo, Willemstad and Caracas. In Buenos Aires, a bomb scared delayed the first of a small number of scheduled flights and in Panama City flights went out as scheduled. Japan Air Lines did not join the strike, nor did pilots in Australia or Vietnam.

Onteora Board Votes to Fire Teacher

By JON POWERS

BOICEVILLE — Robert Lippman, a probationary Junior High School science teacher fired Monday night by the Onteora Board of Education, today again refuted all charges leveled against him by Dr. Frank M. Marlow, Superintendent of Schools, and said he intends to fight his dismissal in the courts.

At a marathon board meeting Monday, Lippman was dismissed following two hours of debate among the estimated 300 persons who attended the session. The Board of Education permitted statements from the audience on the Lippman issue, but board members did not join in the dialogue.

Watson I. Goodrich, Assistant Superintendent, said the reasons for Lippman's dismissal were: "unsatisfacory classroom performance, insubordination, continued lack of good judgment and benavior unbecoming a professional staff member."

Those charges were first brought against Lippman by Dr. Marlow on June 5 at a special board meeting. Lippman, at that meeting, was given the opportunity to refute the charges.

He was given that opportunity again Monday night. Lippman told The Freeman today, "I refuted all their (the board's) charges and the community saw it last night. The people are enraged."

Although formally dismissed (effective June 30), Lippman said the Board of Education has offered to let him resign from his teaching post. "I won't resign," said Lippman today. "It's a matter of principle." He added, "The same thing is happening to first year teachers across the country who are willing to put themselves on the line . . . teachers who are outspoken and who have the courage to question the superintendent and the validity of things in the schools."

Lippman said he intends to take the Board of Education to court, although he is not sure, now, on what grounds. And he added that committees have been formed to try to persuade the board to reverse its decision and to demand the resignation of Dr. Marlow.

Lippman said there is also some talk in the Woodstock community of forming an "alternate high school." Lippman said, "This has become a community issue. The people are incensed."

He added that he thought the Board of Education voted for his dismissal because "They have to back their Superintendent. They hired the guy for five years and now they have to stand benind him."

Marlow outlined the details of the charges against Lippman last week. He charged that the teacher took his classes to parts of the school grounds without prior administration approval; that he used indecent and improper language in the presence of a school secretary; that he used a school vehicle for a trip to a Washingtonville winery without permission; and that he failed to take proper action regarding a propagandistic statement on the blackboard of his classroom among other charges. Marlow said Lippman's dismissal was not related to the length of his hair or his mode of dress.

The vote to dismiss Lippman was 6-1, with Edward Goddard voting against dismissal and Patrick Dodge abstaining. Donald Gross was absent from the meeting.

Saugerties Taxpayers Group . . . Area Attorney Is Contracted

GLASCO — Members of the Saugerties Taxpayers Group, opposed to reevaluation measures taken recently by Suagerties assessors, have contracted Attorney G. Thomas Rea to bring their grievances before the Town of Saugerties Board of Assessors.

The taxpayer's group, which charges inequality and illegality in reassessment practices in Saugerties, first met Sunday night to discuss their grievances. They heard Rea explain the necessary steps that must be taken before court proceedings can be instituted.

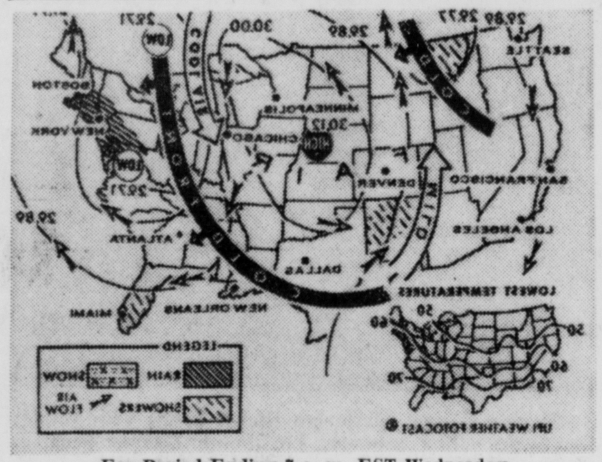

Mrs. Alice Tipp, president of the We've Had It Taxpayers Association, (WHITA), represented that organization at Sunday's meeting, chaired by Frank Mauro.

Mrs. Tipp, also a Saugerties resident, reporting on the meeting, said, "It is a contention of the taxpayers that much inequality exists throughout the township, especially in those areas recently assessed primarily because of the incompetency of the three unqualified part-time (members of) board of assessors. These assessors are attempting a reassessment of the town in a piecemeal fashion without on-site inspection."

The group held a follow-up meeting Monday night, and contracted Rea's services. He is expected to file grievance forms today on behalf of most of the 250 residents who attended Monday's meeting.

The Saugerties Taxpayer's Group also plans to set up a picket line around the Saugerties Town Hall tonight from 6-10 p.m. to dramatize their complaints against assessment practices.

Today is Grievance Day throughout Ulster County, with taxpayers given the opportunity to protest any changes in their assessed valuation.

Wins Maine Primary by 2-1 Margin

Mrs. Smith Keeps Her Record Intact

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI)—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, 74, the nation's only woman senator, kept intact her mystical rapport with the Maine voters by defeating a rich Republican challenger half her age in the Maine primary Monday.

Mrs. Smith, who swamped millionaire industrialist Robert A. G. Monks, 38, by a better than 2-1 margin, will face U.S. Rep. William D. Hathaway, 48, in the November election as both battle for political survival.

"Words cannot express my gratitude," the four-term senator said in a statement issued from her Washington office. "I sincerely appreciate the graciousness of my opponent...He waged a most vigorous, imaginative and impressive campaign."

Gives Up House Seat

Hathaway pledged to conduct "a tough campaign and to spend as much time as possible in Maine." The lawyer, who gave up his House seat to callenge Mrs. Smith's grip on the Maine electorate, said he has visited more than 40 Maine cities and towns since January and planned even more visits before November.

Hathaway beat Portland landscape consultant Jack L. Smith in the Democratic Senate balloting.

In the GOP Congressional races, Portland retailer L. Robert Porteous scored an easy win over retired Army Col. Clifton H. Young in the 1st District. In the 2nd District, Bangor Mayor William S. Cohen, 31, trounced Abbott O. Greene, 39, a commercial pilot.

In the Democratic Congressional races, incumbent Peter N. Kyros, 46, won renomination in the 1st District, beating Everett "Brownie" Carson, a wounded Vietnam veteran and antiwar activist. In the 2nd District, state Sen. Elmer H. Violette of Van Buren swept to victory over Lewis G. Maxwell, a Wilton poultry farmer.

The Returns

Returns from 602 of 629 precincts gave Mrs. Smith 71,107 votes, Monks 34,527, Hathaway 54,601, and Jack Smith 5,653.

Returns from 227 of 239 precincts in the 1st Congressional District gave Porteous 41,143 votes, Young 11,816, Kyros 20,640, and Carson 10,094.

In the 2nd Congressional District, returns from 375 of 390 precincts gave Cohen 26,804 votes, Greene 17,767, Violette 23,859 and Maxwell 6,575.

A Harvard College graduate and Harvard Law School alumnus from Boston, Monks apparently was hurt by the carpetbagger label in a state noted for its suspicion of "outsiders."

While a record turnout had been expected the 18 and 19 year-olds and those over 65 courted by Monks, did not respond in sufficient numbers to overcome Mrs. Smith's heavy support among the middle-aged and rural voters.

Dem Reform Movement Suffers Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has handed Democratic party reformers a setback in their effort to ensure selection of women, minorities and young people as national-convention delegates.

Coming just three weeks before the convention opens, the order left reformers and regulars alike confused about the legal status of more than one-third of the delegates.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge George L. Hart Jr. struck down rules requiring:

—That states apportion delegate slates to include blacks, women and young people "in reasonable relationship to the group's population presence in the state."

—That delegates must not be chosen by party officials elected prior to this year, a rule designed to chip away at the traditional control party bosses hold over delegate selection in some states.

The Democratic National Committee will appeal the order immediately, said committee attorney Joseph A. Califano Jr.

Hart delivered the opinion in a suit filed by Chicago Alderman Thomas E. Keane, an ally of Mayor Richard J. Daley, who sought to defeat a challenge to the 59 uncommitted delegates he controls. Daley said the order "speaks for itself" and "upholds everything that has been said in our petition."

But the decision left the challengers, led by black civil-rights activist Jesse L. Jackson, one leg to stand on. Another rule inspired by the four-year-long reform effort, a ban on choosing delegates in a slate-making process closed to the party grass roots, was left standing.

Attorneys for the Daley foes said they will pursue the challenge on that basis.

In striking down the reform provisions, Judge Hart said, "When you try to provide who you vote for, then you are getting into a communist or fascist form of government, not a republican form."

He said the national committee may require state parties to "take affirmative action" to increase minority participation in party affairs, but that state delegations may not be upset solely on the basis of numbers.

Hart's ruling was the first dealing with the legality of the new rules themselves, adopted by the committee only after reluctant party regulars were persuaded to go along. Previous rulings, including one in Philadelphia Monday, dealt only with specific delegation challenges.

Hart's order upset the process of resolving the 54 challenges currently pending against delegations in 25 states. The committee said those challenges involve 43 per cent of the 2,512 delegates already selected, or about one-third of the convention's total 3,016.

Hurricane Agnes Getting Weaker

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (UPI)—Hurricane Agnes quickly fizzled in the tall pine country of the Florida Panhandle after it slammed inland from the Gulf of Mexico Monday, but it left an uncertain death toll in its path.

At least 13 persons died in Florida and Cuba from the storm. Authorities said an undetermined number of persons still was missing in the Okeechobee area, where tornadoes smashed six mobile home retirement parks.

Agnes, meanwhile, was blustering through south Georgia today with peak winds of 45 miles per hour, getting weaker as it moved further over land. The National Hurricane Center in Miami said at midnight the storm was in the vicinity of Albany, Ga., moving north-northwest at 14 m.p.h.

The center today also was watching a strong tropical depression 185 miles southwest of Bermuda which was threatening the finish of the Newport-to-Bermuda yacht race. Ocean race gale warnings went into effect as the leaders of the 177-boat fleet, racing from Newport, R.I., were halted as they approached a 50 m.p.h. gusting wind, nearing the Bermuda finish line.

Agnes, the first hurricane of the 1972 season, killed six persons in Florida and seven in Cuba. But, for some fallen tree limbs and water damage, it did little property damage in the Florida Panhandle.

Panama City, with its huge resort beaches, escaped damage, although the beach hotels were emptied when tourists fled the onrushing storm Sunday. "We've had worse storms in winter," said Panama City Beach Mayor Dan Russell.

But at Okeechobee, where tornadoes struck six mobile home retirement parks killing four persons and injuring 41 more, workers still were searching for the missing.

Three tornadoes destroyed about 60 planes and heavily damaged 60 homes around an airport in Brevard County on the Atlantic coast—home of the Kennedy Space Center. Sheriff Leigh Wilson estimated damage at $10 million, but there was only minor damage at the space center.

Treasury Studying Plan for Taxpayers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under congressional prodding, the Treasury is studying a plan to reward taxpayers who agree to lend the government the extra-large refunds they expect to get next year from income-tax withholding.

The idea is not so much to ease the government's borrowing problems as to head off a surge of inflation when taxpayers suddenly collect an estimated $8 billion in spendable funds.

The proposal is to offer a choice to taxpayers whose 1972 returns show a refund coming: either take the cash, or accept a bond that pays better interest than the 5.5-per-cent yield the ordinary seven-year government Series E. Bond provides.

Withholding has been a headache for two years for wage-earners and the Treasury alike. In 1969, the rate was set too low, and many taxpayers found that, when they filed their returns this year, they owed substantial amounts.

In an effort to correct this, Congress revised the withholding rate late last year, on Treasury recommendations, but overcompensated.

So, there is the prospect that taxpayers, with money taken out of their paychecks that the government would prefer to leave in the spending stream, will have big refunds coming in early 1973. That is when administration economists expect the economy to be more robust—and more inflation-prone.

Rocky's Reservations Delays Dam

WASHINGTON (UPI — Reservations by Governor Rockefeller over who should assume responsibility for paying pollution safeguards were seen today as one of the reasons for delay in construction of the proposed $370 million Tocks Island Dam on the Delaware River.

The House Appropriations Committee Monday knocked out all construction funds for the project until federal environmental demands are met. The committee did approve, however, $14.8 million to be used for accelerated land acquisition. The $14.8 million is the amount President Nixon asked for in his fiscal 1973 budget for the dam.

In addition, the congressmen took away the $1,650,000 appropriated for construction purposes a year ago, but not yet spent, and also earmarked that for buying land.

The project, planned as the centerpoint of a vast Delaware Water Gap national recreation area to serve the East Coast megalopolis, has met increased opposition in Congress, since the Council on Environmental Quality has become vocal in its opposition to the Corps of Engineers beginning construction until the ecological concerns are cleared.

The dam was scheduled to be constructed on the Delaware River near Stroudsburg, Pa.

Work had been held up under an agreement between the CEQ and the Corps that construction would not begin until certain assurances had been given both the Delaware River Basin Commission and - or the governors of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and New York.

In addition, the CEQ asked Rockefeller for a special assurance that state would give priority to abating pollution problems that might affect the project, especially poultry and dairy farm wastes.

Rockefeller has said, however, that he could not give such assurance, adding that he felt costs of run - off treatment and land - use control in the upper reaches of the basin in New York should be charged to the project, not the state or municipalities.

"Under the circumstances, though the committee continues to recognize the flood control, water supply, and other needs the proposed reservoir is designed to meet," the committee report said. "It would seem inappropriate for any construction work on the reservoir to go forward unless and until the foregoing environmental problem has been satisfactorily resolved."

In granting the entire $14.8 million, for land acquisition, including the $6 million in the budget requested for construction, the committee noted that only half of the 14,000 acres needed for the reservoir had been purchased.

"There is, therefore, more than half the required acreage to be acquired, some held by owners with considerable hardship," the committee said.

New Jersey Gov. William T. Cahill and Sen. James L. Buckley, R - N.Y., were major new blocks to the construction this year.

Cahill voiced reservations about the entire concept because of auxiliary costs to his state for highways and other systems, while Buckley spoke against constructing the dam because of doubts about the water quality of the reservoir.

Comptroller Levitt Warns On Private Bonds Sales

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — In his second major blast at the financial practices of independent state authorities, Comptroller Arthur Levitt has warned that he wants fewer private sales of bonds by the agencies.

The comptroller Monday notified 11 authorities, ranging from the Urban Development Corp., to the Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority, that after Aug. 1 he will not approve such privately - negotiated borrowing without adequate notice to his office.

He suggested the "best means" for obtaining funds was to ask for competitive bids, thus borrowing at the lowest possible interest rate.

In his first attack on the agencies, Levitt reported Sunday that they have repaid only 15 per cent of the $420 million in outstanding loans from state revenues over the past eight years.

"For several years, I have been concerned about the fact that several agencies have made excessive use of private sales, converting a statutory privilege into a standard practice," the most recent letter said.

Although the comptroller's approval is already required for the privately - negotiated sales, Levitt said he is often confronted with "an accomplished transaction."

A spokesman for the comptroller said the comptroller had no particular agency or sale in mind.

But, as examples of the scope of such sales without public bids, he cited recent issuing of the Urban Development Corp., of $250 million, the Housing Finance Agency of $175 million for State University construction, and State Mortgage Agency of $49.6 million.

While acknowledging "occasional circumstances" justifying private sales, Levitt said competitive bidding was "the best means of marketing bonds, protecting not only the public but the public officers involved."

After Aug. 1, he said, his approval will depend on "written justification of the decision to sell at private sale, to be submitted to me before negotiation of the sale is started, and upon my concurrence in the justification.

"In addition, the terms of sale should be submitted far enough in advance of the closing date for me to evaluate the transaction with adequate consideration of market trends and conditions."

The agencies notified were the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, Environmental Facilities Corp., Urban Development Corp., Job Development Authority, Atomic and Space Development Authority, Housing Finance Agency, Mortgage Agency, and the Niagara Frontier, Central New York, Rochester-Genesee and Capital District transportation authorities.

Interfaith Is Threat, Say Orthodox Rabbis

FALLSBURG, N.Y. (AP) — Leaders at a meeting of the nation's orthodox rabbis say that a rising tide of interfaith relationships is a dire threat to the life of judaism.

The trend is "swallowing us up to make us part of a non-Jewish world," said Rabbi Bernard Rosensweig, of Queens, N.Y., chairman of the annual convention of the Rabbinical Council of America.

He told its opening session Monday night that ecumenicism and interreligious dialogue were weakening the distinctive aspects of Judaism.

"The problem has never been as real and as fearsome as it is today," he said. He added that thousands were leaving the faith.

The council represents about 1,000 orthodox rabbis across the country, serving congregations whose total membership was put at 1.5 million.

Orthodox Judaism adheres strictly to ancient traditions and ritual, in contrast to reform Judaism which seeks to adjust worship customs to the times.

Reform Judaism also differs in its support for interreligious conversation.

Both Rabbi Rosensweig and other orthodox leaders said they approved cooperation with Christians in matters of social concern, but oppose mixing theological ideas.

Declared Rabbi Meir Felman of Brooklyn: "To those endeavoring to bring about a mix of Jews and Christians it is high time that we declare that we stand for unadulturated Jewish life."

Citing a recent report from reform rabbis showing 41 per cent of them had performed mixed marriages, Rabbi Samson R. Weiss of New York said Judaism was suffering a "spiritual holocaust."

It has a duty to say "no" to the harmonizing trends, he said.

Rabbi Bernard L. Berzon, the outgoing president of the council, said Judaism also is threatened by the failure of seminary graduates to enter active service as rabbis.

Instead, 60 per cent of them go into other fields such as social service, causing a sharpening shortage of rabbis in all parts of the country except New York City, he said.

He said if the trend continues "our far flung communities will face chaos" for lack of leadership.

Rabbi Berzon also urged Christian support for American recognition of the full city of Jerusalem as the capital of Israel, including the "Old City" annexed in the 1967 war.

Although Israel has Jerusalem its capital, the United States has not so recognized it, maintaining its embassy in the former capital at Tel Aviv.

New Tax Base Leader

KINGSTON — Saugerties Legislator C. Freeman Lasher was named chairman of the County Legislature's Tax Base Study Committee recently by Chairman Peter J. Savago, R-Dist. 8.

Lasher will serve as chairman of this important committee, succeeding Legislator Ralph C. Brach, R-Dist. 9. The Tax Base Study Committee on which Lasher served has in its charge the vital tax mapping program of the county currently in progress.

Legislator Lasher was elected in 1971 and began his second term in January. He previously served on the Legislature from 1968 to 1969. He was defeated in his bid for reelection in November 1969. A former dairy farmer, Lasher is owner and operator of Kelly's Paint and Gift store in Saugerties.

Legislator Lasher also serves as chairman of the Conservation Committee.

Dairy Month

June is Dairy Month and the Ulster County Legislature celebrated that fact June 15 with the presentation of nine Dairy Princess contestants and the consumption of milk. Legislator Eugene O. Corey, Dist. 9, presented the girls with corsages from his florist shop. Legislators Philip H. Davis, Dist. 11 (L) ,Chairman Peter J. Savago and S. Robert Kelder, Dist. 2 join in the observance.

State Labor Plan Detailed

ACCORD — Industrial Commissioner Louis L. Levine explained why he favored the integration of the former Division of Employment with the State Labor Department at a meeting at the Granit 2 Hotel today.

The integration, now in full progress, "eliminates fragemented programs and improves benefits to labor and management," according to Levine, addressing the spring meeting of the New York State Conference on Unemployment Insurance.

The Labor Department head said: "In New York State, for many years our unemployment insurance as well as our employment service functions operated in virtually an independent fashion within the Labor Department.

"By reorganizing the Department.... I have integrated these functions into our overall program. From now on, the federally-funded unemployment insurance and employment service functions will no longer operate in a vacuum but will be tied in closely to the other purposes of the State Labor Department..."

Commissioner Levine said manpower services should be re-designed so that "we can offer clients a one-stop service center."

The former Unemployment Insurance Bureau will be known as the Unemployment Insurance Division and the Employment Service Bureau now is identified as the Manpower Services Division.

Welfare Head Urges Caution In Check Case

KINGSTON — The Social Service Department of Ulster County has had several acres of lost or stolen public assistance checks reported.

Social Service Commissioner Bernhardt S. Kramer, who announced the incidence said the department is investigating the situation and the matter has been turned over to area police authorities.

Kramer cautioned anyone cashing Social Service Department checks for recipients, should be certain they know the individual cashing the check or be certain to insist on some form of identification.

Japan Study Slated at Paltz College

NEW PALTZ — For the fifth consecutive year the Center for Continuing Education at the State University College at New Paltz will sponsor a Japanese Summer Study Program, with 43 young Japanese men and women studying on the campus from July 4 to August 1.

Co-directors Alfred Marks and Morgan Jones of the Department of English and World Literature said that classes in English as a foreign language, composition, public speaking, and American culture will meet one hour daily, and that a two hour supervised study period would also be set up for the students.

As in previous summers, families in the mid-Hudson area will serve as hosts for the visiting students, introducting them to American homes, customs, food, and historical sights in the area.

Families wishing to have two visitors as guests may make arrangements by calling the host family program coordinators, Herta M. Marks and Emily M. Jones.

The annual "Japan Night" will be held again at a date to be announced later. At this affair the Japanese students entertain their hosts and the public in general, introducing them to Japanese life.

During their stay in the area the students will visit Boston and Washington D.C. and will tour the country by chartered bus after their study program ends. They then spend two weeks in American homes somewhere in the middle west before returning to Japan late in August.

Flower Show Is Planned

ELLENVILLE — "Days to Remember," the standard flower show sponsored by the Shawangunk Garden Club, will be held Thursday from 2 to 8 p.m. in the undercroft of the St. John's Episcopal Church on Market Street in Ellenville.

Proceeds from the show will be used for the Garden Club's civic projects.

The public is invited. Senior citizens may attend as guests of the Garden Club.

Two Globetrotters

No matter how they belittle them, the voyages of Henry Kissinger to Peking and of Nikolai Podgorny to Hanoi at the same time are more than a coincidence. Nothing may come of them of course. But it will not be surprising if their effect is considerable.

Kissinger, President Nixon's national security advisor, is on his fourth trip to talk to Premier Chou En-lai of China, in less than a year. He could be going to brief Chou on President Nixon's trip to Moscow, and no doubt will, but that is hardly enough to turn around within a week of his going to Tokyo on a similar mission. He could have crossed the China sea in an hour for that.

President Podgorny of the Soviet Union is a practiced mollifier. He might have gone to Hanoi to explain why his country has not cleared the American-laid mines in the ports of North Vietnam, to facilitate the passage of war supplies. Chou is supposed to have explained Red China's reasons for not doing so, in a secret conference recently with Hanoi leaders. But this did not require Podgorny to go halfway around the world to do something ambassadors usually do.

The timing belies such missions. Consider the slowdown of the North Vietnamese invasion. The battle for Kontum is over. The siege of An Loc has been lifted. The imperial capital of Hue has been reenforced and there is no sign of the long-expected assault to capture it. The monsoons may not have brought the invasion to a grinding halt, but it has probably given Hanoi to understand that without China and the Soviet Union it will not be able to get out of this war without a military defeat.

Under these circumstances, it is not an exaggerated guess to link the Kissinger and Podgorny missions. In that event, Kissinger's aim would be to persuade Chou that no advantage will accrue to the Soviet from an end to the war in Vietnam on American terms. Podgorny's would be to persuade Hanoi that the realities of the world—a risk of confrontation with the full might of the United States, makes it unadvisable for the Soviet to run the blockade.

These guesses may miss the point altogether. We hope not. And we pray they are not only correct, but will succeed. Then will come the long-awaited peace.

Moving Wives

One in every five American families move to another community every year, usually to improve the economic situation. It is the husband who readily says, "Have car, will move." But few studies have been made of how wives of executive types who moved frequently think about it.

A symposium on mobility just held in Indiana and Purdue Universities had for its highlight a 311-question survey, made by Mrs. Stella Jones, a sociologist, who had with her husband Dean Jones made one move that soured in two weeks and was on another move which was working out better.

Mrs. Jones decided to find out how other women were affected by the husband's job-induced mobility. She sent her questionnaire to the women of families whose names she obtained from the moving company that had moved them. She found that 78 per cent of the women considered the wife "the key person in establishing the home and making the move successfully. Another 10 per cent were "unhappy" with changing homes but a vast majority are willing to adjust "even if it causes them some pain."

The move is a serious matter for the whole family. Women and children often are personally affected. The man finds stimulus in the new opportunity. But it should be a family decision with the pain and the advantages for all the family being weighed fairly.

"When I asked for a 'Saturday night special', I meant from the menu!"

Jack Anderson Says

Living High on the Hog

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's political operators, as befitting politicans with a multimillion-dollar kitty, are campaigning in style.

They travel first class, stay at the most fashionable hotels, dine at the most elegant restaurants and smoke the finest cigars.

Their expense accounts for April and May show they spent $34,631 on commercial flights, $6,318 for chartered planes and another $3,714 for the use of government planes.

In New York City, of course, they stayed at the Waldorf-Astoria. The bill for only three visits was $2,985. Their favorite spot in Florida was the Boca Raton Club, a watering hole for millionaires.

Bills were also submitted from the Bay Hill Club and Lodge, Orlando, Fla.; Canyon Hotel, Palm Springs, Calif.; Century Plaza, Los Angeles; Del Webb Townhouse, Phoenix, Ariz., and Four Ambassadors Hotel, Miami.

The President's fund raisers wined and dined prospective contributors at Washington's fanciest eateries. One luncheon tab at the Gramercy Inn came to $1,300. They also downed $983 worth of French cuisine prepared by the fashionable Avignone Freres.

And, on a trip to New Orleans, they feasted at La Ruth's and charged the $245 check to the campaign.

White House Parties

The cheapest place to entertain wealthy backers, apparently, is the White House. However, for their April 19 reception, the Republican Finance Committee fully reimbursed the White House guest fund with $159.

This wasn't the first time the President has used the White House to fatten the Republican campaign chest. On an earlier occasion, several Illinois millionaires were invited to the White House for dinner with the President. He made a few pleasant remarks, then discreetly disappeared while they had their arms twisted over afterdinner drinks and cigars.

The President's fund raisers, incidentally, collected over $10 million from unidentified contributors before a new law went into effect on April 7 requiring that all political donors be named.

Phony campaign committees were set up in Washington to receive the donations, and more than 200 bank accounts were opened to hold all the cash.

Meanwhile, the Democrats are strapped for cash. Senator Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., has gone $1 million in debt, and Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., has also spent more than he has managed to take in.

O'Brien's Expenses

Democratic National Chairman Larry O'Brien, as a gesture to the bankrupt Democrats, is serving without a salary. His sacrifice is more apparent, however, than real.

Virtually all of his personal expenses are paid by the party. He is provided with a chauffeur-driven car; his rent at the plush Sheraton Park apartments is paid; and he also eats at the best restaurants in town — all courtesy of the Democratic National Committee.

His air travel bills are charged to the party, often including tickets for his wife. Not long ago, O'Brien and his wife and two aides, one of them a secretary, flew first-class from New York to San Juan, Puerto Rico.

After several days in the sun, they caught a plane to Chicago. But Mrs. O'Brien continued on to Aspen, Colo., for some time on the ski slopes.

Democratic officials insist that Mrs. O'Brien's fare to Colorado will be paid by her husband personally. She only travels with her husband at party expense, they say, when her presence is needed for official functions.

Republican officials say only that their expenses are all "legitimate," and that they "have reported them in detail also required by law."

But contributors, who are being asked to pony up for the candidate of their choice, might wonder.

Washington Whirl

Shaffer's $13 Claim — John Shaffer, the gallivanting administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration, logs 150,000 miles a year in the skies he polices. He has never suffered any injuries or accidents as a result of official air travel. But he stepped into his chauffeur-driven government car some months ago, bumped his shoulder on the edge of the door, and tore a two-inch gash in his coat. Shaffer, who makes $42,500 a year, had his coat reweaved and applied for $13 damage claim against the government.

Headlines and Footnotes — The word from Moscow is that the Kremlin considers President Nixon a sure bet to win re-election in November. This is one reason Leonid Brezhnev, the party chief, laid out the Red carpet for him in Moscow. . . The President has cautioned Henry Kissinger and other aides, who may be dealing with both the Soviets and Chinese, to keep their stories straight. The President doesn't want them saying one thing to Moscow, another to Peking . . . Nixon is eager to bring two or three thousand Soviet scientists, doctors and intellectuals to the United States to study. He believes they will go home with a favorable impression that will help avert misunderstandings in the future.

A Stitch in Time?

David Lawrence Says

The Wallace Role

WASHINGTON — The biggest puzzle about the Democratic National Convention which starts on July 10 is what will happen to the Wallace votes. Governor George Wallace of Alabama has won six primaries. He took second place in six others, and now holds over 300 votes in the convention. Texas, for instance, awarded him 42 delegates, which is more than it gave any other prospective candidate.

The question is: what will the ultimate Wallace strategy be? His supporters could throw their strength to either Senator George McGovern of South Dakota or Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota. There is as yet, however, no indication of such a course. Governor Wallace is expected to go to the convention, but he may also prepare himself for a third-party campaign, though his aides say there are no such plans at this time. The probability is that Wallace will make his argument at the convention for the kind of platform he thinks should be adopted. If the document doesn't reflect the viewpoint he has been expressing, it is possible that he might lead an Independent Party, as he did in 1968.

A three-party contest would not be a comfortable one to carry on for either Republicans or Democrats, because Wallace does attract a substantial number of voters. The Alabama Governor has never completely shut out the possibility of his participation as an Independent candidate in the campaign. There are doubts, however, that he would be able to carry on a vigorous contest in view of his physical condition. One of his top aides recently stated that the Governor's plans have been concentrated on the Democratic primaries and the convention, and that "there are no third-party plans now."

The McGovern candidacy is obviously in the lead. While the South Dakota Senator doesn't have enough votes as yet to win on the first ballot, there is always a chance that changes among the delegates could develop and give him the nomination on an early ballot. If he got such approval, it would be very helpful to him in his campaign. But the Democratic Party today is divided into many groups, and there is no certainty as to what the final preference of the majority of the delegates will be when the first and second ballots are taken.

Governor Wallace's presence at the convention will keep his supporters active and may even increase the number of delegates he gets. The convention is bound to be one of the most interesting in quite a few years.

President Nixon will have begun his campaign when the Democratic convention has chosen its nominees. There is always the possiblity that lots of those who may be disappointed with the nominees selected at the Democratic convention will cross over and vote for the Republican ticket in November.

A question that has been widely discussed is whether Governor Wallace would desert his party and endorse the Republican nominee if the results of the Democratic Convention left him unhappy. Some of President Nixon's supporters would prefer that there be no third party in the contest. One of them contends that "we would prefer that Wallace raise a fuss at the Democratic Convention, then sit on his hands until the November election."

Currently, close friends of the Alabama Governor say the prospect of support for Nixon by Wallace is "inconceivable." But it is quite possible, of course, that Wallace's backing may drift away from the Democrats into a third party.

This is the year in which the argument about "change" is going to be the most important one of all. The voters will be told that the executive branch of the government can be run differently and that the proposed policies, briefly presented in the Democratic platform, will tell the citizens what a Democratic administration is going to do for them.

The many complex questions of domestic and foreign policy will be dealt with on the stump by the speakers. When the campaign has been concluded, the big question the voter will have to answer is: Is this the time for a change?

Martin Nolan Says

The Availability of Kennedy

WASHINGTON — Interviewing Edward Kennedy used to be like watching an haute-cinematique French movie.

The dialogue was often reduced to soulful stares and meaningful grunts. To supply the verbs and prepositions missing in a Kennedy conversation required a technical patois as arcane as the camera instructions of Truffaut or Roger Vadim.

But Kennedy is looser now and his conversation is suddenly more precise. That is an irony as finely chiselled as each syllable the senator selects.

Would he take the vice-presidential nomination on a ticket with George McGovern? Kennedy puffs on a cigarillo, trots out a few half-sentences, some noble ellipses, then says, "I don't want to exclude all the possibilities."

He later refines this to the assertation that "I would not exclude the possibility." But he quickly adds the caveat — properly demure and deferential — that "it would be presumptuous, really, to accept something that hasn't been offered."

He acknowledged that "some things may happen between now and the convention," namely the increasingly anguished cries of labor leaders, old-line party officials and professional Democratic worriers that a McGovern ticket may require his presence.

"Nixon's going after the Catholic vote, I know," says the man whose name is a tribal symbol of shared glory to millions of "swing voters" in tentatively-assimilated ethnic groups. And despite McGovern's growing strength among black voters, the Kennedy name there remains truly talismanic.

In the electoral college, a McGovern-Kennedy ticket seems to make political sense. Despite McGovern's wistful gazes toward the South for a running mate, the late Confederacy looks increasingly barren for Democrats.

McGovern himself wants Kennedy as a running mate for electoral reasons but also for presidential reasons. While the South Dakota Senator's staff may fret about the shadow of Camelot obscuring the glory of their hero, McGovern himself is unworried.

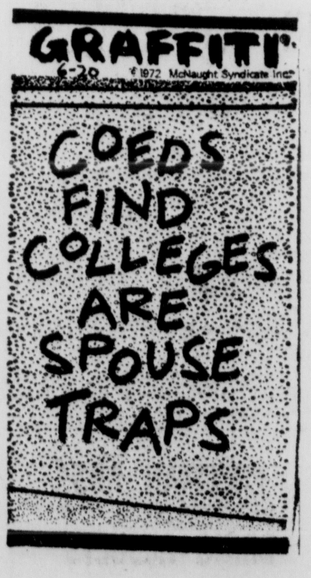

As people are slowly beginning to recognize, George McGovern is a strong, self-assured man. He doesn't blink at the prospect of a strong, self-assured running mate or Vice-President. McGovern really believes that Kennedy would make a good President and if his staff chooses to fret, they do so without his sympathy. Moreover, he likes Kennedy; it's as simple as that.

For Kennedy himself, his availability removes him from any stop-McGovern cabal. Even if his personal considerations take precedence and he does not run for Vice-President, Kennedy has already helped McGovern. He has helped legitimize McGovern among hostile and skeptical elements of the party.

And even if Kennedy does not accept the party's call, he has already ingratiated himself among the future shock troops of the Democratic party, among the future delegates to future Democratic conventions, i.e., the McGovern people.

That four-syllable Indian word from the mists of 1969 and Martha's Vineyard might also be exorcised by a Kennedy vice-presidential candidacy.

In fact, the whole campaign might go on with hardly a mention of that episode. And that would be as subtle and ironic a piece of drama as anything that happened in "Last Year at Marienbad."

Frank Sinatra Paying the Price For Association With 'Tough Guys'

EDITORS' NOTE: Through his long career Frank Sinatra has been dogged by whispers, innuendos—even charges—linking him with organized crime in America. Now he is wanted by Congressional crime probers for questioning. This is the first of three articles examining the mystery of the mercurial singing star.

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The shadow of the Mafia haunts Frank Sinatra even in retirement.

"So far as I know, there is no such organization as the Mafia," the singer once said in response to questions put to him by a grand jury.

But from the beginnings of his career more than three decades ago Frank Sinatra has been linked by rumor, quasi officials and fact with underworld figures.

It was the linking of his name with criminal elements that sundered his friendship with President Kennedy. An underworld figure was responsible for Nevada's gaming commission voiding Sinatra's interest in a gambling casino at Lake Tahoe.

When Sinatra failed early this month to appear before the House Crime Committee about his role as vice president of the defunct Berkshire Downs Race Track in Hancock, Mass. On that occasion, he flew to London ostensibly to discuss a comeback from retirement to star in "The Little Prince" with his friend and neighbor in Palm Springs, Frederick Loewe of "My Fair Lady" fame.

That put Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., in the position of trying to get Sinatra to Washington for an appearance before the crime committee July 18. It was a difficult assignment. When Sinatra plays hard to get, he is hard to get.

His representative in Hollywood, press agent Jim Mahoney, says the singer's trip abroad was a legitimate business trip regarding a film.

"Have you ever known Frank to run from a fight?" Mahoney asked.

Whether or not Frank Sinatra is involved in any criminal activity—innocently or otherwise—he is paying the price for having associated with the tough guys in organized crime if only on a social basis.

He continues to deny knowledge of the underground, but nonetheless his name is irrevocably linked with the shady glamor of the enforcers.

Sinatra was infuriated by the novel "The Godfather" in which a character is suspiciously akin to the temperamental singer. Sinatra came close to a fist fight with its author, Mario Puzo, when the two were introduced in a restaurant.

This cloud of mystery—does Sinatra have underworld contacts?—has both helped and hurt him.

It adds a touch of excitement, an element of suspense to the man's public image. Conversely, the innuendoes and rumors have cost him perhaps millions of dollars in business affairs, particularly in the state of Nevada.

More importantly, to his ego, it lost him direct entree to the White House when, during the JFK years, it was called Camelot.

Sinatra's social and political peak was reached at JFK's inaugural ball when he escorted Mrs. Kennedy to the gala. That was in January of 1961. A year later the tide had turned.

Sam Giancana, a reputed Chicago kingpin of the Cosa Nostra, was a guest of Sinatra's at the singer's flossy Cal-Neva Lodge. Giancana was one of 11 persons listed in Nevada's so-called "black book" as persona non grata in licensed gaming establishments.

It was that association that led to a Department of Justice investigation in Sinatra's activities and his loss of Cal-Neva.

Robert Kennedy was then attorney general of the United States.

When the President decided to spend a holiday in Palm Springs his friend Sinatra added a wing to his home—the presidential suite—to be occupied by JFK. But in view of Sinatra's publicity with Giancana and the fact that Bobby Kennedy's office was asking questions, JFK demurred. He stayed at the home of Bing Crosby in Palm Springs. Crosby, a Republican!

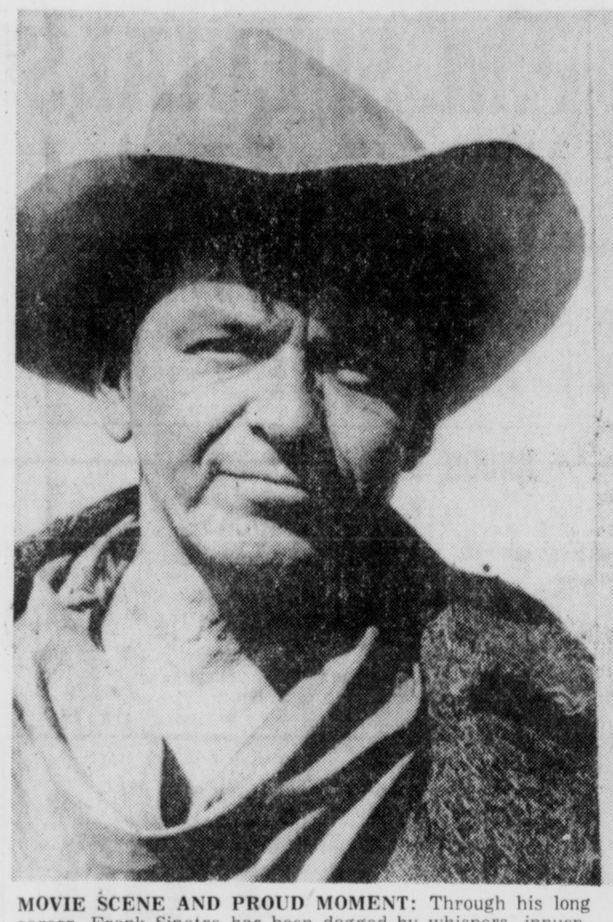

The episode dissolved Sinatra's friendship with the Kennedy family and with some influential persons in Hollywood.

Four years ago Sinatra campaigned on behalf of Hubert Humphrey, opposing the nomination of Bobby Kennedy. This year he has stumped for no one. Instead he attended a fund-raising dinner for Vice President Spiro Agnew in Maryland. Sinatra and Agnew have been friends and golfing companions.

Three marriages, middle age, retirement and his ever-running battle with "authority" have altered Sinatra's life style.

He is not the man he once was, certainly, and the man who has emerged has become reclusive and more secretive. In one respect he has not changed, however. He is as combative as ever.

MOVIE SCENE AND PROUD MOMENT: Through his long career, Frank Sinatra has been dogged by whispers, innuendoes—even charges—linking him with organized crime in America. Now he is wanted by Congressional crime probers for questioning. The famed entertainer is shown (L) as he appeared in scene from his last film, "Dirty Dingus Magee," undated photo, and (R) after receiving the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award for special achievement in the industry during presentation ceremonies for the Broadway Awards in 1971. 16th Anniversary for Kingsmen

KINGSTON

The Kingsmen are celebrating 16 years as a chapter of SPEBSQSA with a "Barbershop Harmony Birthday Party" to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Wednesday, from 8 to 10 p.m.

The program will be fun packed and filled with surprises. There will be guest quartets from neighboring chapters and local quartets from the "past" and "present" and the Kingsmen Chorus.

Sixteen years ago on June 21, 1956 the Kingston Chapter, then known as the Mid Hudson Chapter, held a Charter Night at the Old Dutch Church. The program consisted of the formal presentation of the charter making the Kingston Chapter one of approximately 600 chapters in SPEBSQSA The Kingston Chapter chorus and quartets, "The Kingtones" and "The Sweet Siders," sang several selections. The sponsoring chapter, the Empire Statesmen from Gloversville/Johnstown, provided the singing highlights of the program. The Empire Statesmen were three time Northeastern District Chorus champions. Also from this chapter a quartet called the Clip Chords, past Northeastern District Quartet champions sang many old time favorites.

Since that time the Kingsmen have performed throughout New York, New England, and Montreal, Canada. Today there are more than 700 chapters and 32,000 members of SPEBSQSA, making it the largest male singing organization in the world.

The 700 chapters donate on a voluntary basis money to the Logopedics Society which deals with speech and hearing defects in children.

The Kingsmen make contributions to this society with part of the proceeds from the annual show. The motto that SPEBSQSA has adopted is, "We Sing That They Shall Speak."

Anyone interested in attending may contact Dick O'Leary, or Tom Welch. There will be no charge for admission.

Garage Site Is Approved

PLATTEKILL

The Town of Plattekill will construct a new combined town office buliding and highway garage on the site of the present highway garage in Modena.

Supervisor George Sisti Jr. said that the nearly 200 persons who jammed into the Plattekill Fire House Monday night for a public information meeting had expressed approval of the site by a 187-7 margin. A similar show of hands for the new building gave approval by a similar margin.

The town now owns 2½ acres at the present highway garage site and Sisti said they plan to purchase an additional two or three acres adjacent for the new building and parking space.

Plans prepared by Town Engineer Jose Camalonga call for a one-story steel building 220 by 50 feet, with offices for the supervisor, town justices, town clerk, and superintendent of highways in front and a six-bay garage in the rear for highway department vehicles. Another three bays will be provided for the town's police cars, Sisti said.

Present plans call for the town assessor's office to remain in the present town hall building in Ardonia.

Sisti said that the town now has on hand $50,000 in unexpended budget funds and capital reserves and that the balance of the estimated $110,000 cost of the new building would be raised through a bond issue.

Three Killed In Lockport

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (UPI) — Three persons were killed in a collision Monday between a car and a tractor - trailer when the car apparently failed to stop for a stop sign, sheriff's deputies reported.

The accident occurred in the Niagara County town of Wheatfield, a few miles from here.

The victims in the crash were identified as Jan VanBuren, 36, of Gasport, the driver of the auto; Robert Hill, 46, of Elmira; and a passenger in the car, Jessie Smith of the Niagara County hamlet of Burt.

According to deputies the crash was so severe that it took well over an hour to extricate the bodies from the wreckage. A crane was needed to lift the truck off the top of the car.

All three were pronounced dead at the scene. The accident occurred at Shawnee and Maple roads.

Mrs. Van Buren lived at 8644 Ernest Road. Smith lived on West Creek Road. Hill's address was 286 North Street.

Appointment Is Announced

ALBANY

The appointment of Robert Francello of Saugerties as secretary of the New York State Narcotic Control Commission has been announced by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

He succeeds Bernhardt S. Kramer who recently resigned the post to accept the position of Commissioner of Social Services in Ulster County.

Francello, who resides at 55 Partition Street, Saugerties, has been lecturing statewide for the Narcotics Commission concerning laws pertaining to narcotics.

An attorney, he is a graduate of Saugerties Central School, 1961 and received his Bachelor of Arts degree in history from Union College in 1965. He graduated from Albany Law School with a Juris Doctorate degree in 1968 and was admitted to the Bar to practice in all courts of the state.

Francello is vice president of the Saugerties Board of Education and is a member of St. Mary's of the Snow Church, Lions Club and Saugerties Republican Club. While in College, he was president of the student body at Albany Law School.

Pressure Training For Pilots

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Last year the U.S. Air Force spent more than $1 million sending 15,000 pilots and flight crew members through pressure chambers to simulate rapid decompression, the emergency that struck an American Airlines DC10.

But America's major airlines, which carried 152 million passengers in the United States last year, don't require this emergency training for their pilots and stewardesses, a poll indicated recently. Federal Aviation Administration regulations don't require it.

So only pilots with military experience and a handful of stewardesses know what it feels like when the unexpected bang comes, followed by a whoosh of air, a cold mist fogging the cabin, and objects whistling about.

The incident raises anew old questions about whether such training should be mandatory for airline crews.

The American Airlines spokesmen said DC10 experienced sudden decompression when a hatch came open over Ontario. The crew made an emergency landing at Detroit minutes later without a rudder or left braking system, with the rear engine of the three-engine plane disabled and elevation controls partially lost. Of the 67 persons aboard, nine were injured slightly while sliding down emergency escape chutes after landing and two stewardesses were hurt slightly when a floor collapsed.

Airline crew training officials questioned included representatives for Pan American, United Trans World, Continental and American. All said pressure training isn't deemed necessary because rapid decompression occurs so infrequently. Training now in use is sufficient, they said.

However the Air Force requires every pilot and crew member and even touring congressmen and other civilians to take its physiological training course and renew it every three years before they can fly in most high altitude aircraft.

The course consists of one day of classroom work followed by half a day in the pressure chamber. Students learn to use oxygen masks, are taken up to a simulated altitude of 43,000 feet achieved by pumping air from the chamber. They take their masks off briefly, experiencing oxygen deficiency, which can lead to unconsciousness.

Then with the chamber at 22,000 feet, a valve is opened and the altitude suddenly drops to 8,000 feet. It's a startling experience, even though the student knows it's coming.

Altitude chamber training is available to airline pilots and stewardesses for $5 through a cooperative program between the FAA and the armed forces. But FAA officials who head the program in Oklahoma City said very few stewardesses have participated. No figure on the number of pilots was available.

Pressurized aircraft cabins became necessary with the advent of jet airplanes which operate at extremely high altitudes.

Pumps force air into the cabin constantly, simulating a much lower altitude, usually 8,000 feet, at which oxygen masks aren't needed.

But if a hatch blows open or the pressure hull otherwise is opened, rapid decompression can result.

American's passengers were apparently in little danger Monday night because the airplane had just left Detroit and was at 12,000 feet where adequate oxygen is available.

However the craft's normal operating altitude is 35,000 to 38,000 feet and if a plane suddenly was depressurized at that altitude, anyone who didn't immediately begin breathing oxygen from the mask that would drop in front of him would pass out in less than a minute.

In Detroit, the National Transportation Safety Board, FAA and FBI launched what officials said could be a lengthy investigation of the cause of the mishap. Officials said the latch on the aft storage bin opened to trigger depressurization.

It's Getting Easy For Buyers Of Groceries

It's getting easier to buy groceries at 3 a.m. in the United States, but harder to fill a prescription, buy a tank of gasoline or go out for a meal in the early hours.

A rising tide of supermarkets have switched in the past few months from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. hours to 24-hour operation, bucking a trend among other consumer facilities that threatens to remake America's big cities in the image of small towns that roll up the sidewalks at night.

A survey shows that while many more supermarkets are open all night, the number of all-night drug stores, gas stations and restaurants is shrinking.

And the new 24-hour operations are being opened in suburbs, not in central cities. Their trade depends on the more mobile life style and lower crime rates of suburbia.

Last year, four per cent of the 35,000 supermarkets with over $500,000 business a year were open all night, mostly on the West Coast where such operations began several years ago, according to Bill Bishop, head of research at the Super Market Institute.

But in the last six months in the Midwest and the last two months on the East Coast, the number of chains with 24-hour operations has grown so fast that no up-to-date figures are available.

Dominick's, Jewel, and Red Owl food stores in Illinois and Wisconsin are trying 24-hour operations at selected stores. Food Fair is putting 45 of its supermarkets in Philadelphia on 24 hours. The largely suburban Pathmark chain in New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania has had 92 of its 96 supermarkets open 24 hours since May 7.

Some Safeway stores in the Washington area have gone to 24-hour operation.

Wrigley's put 14 stores in the Detroit suburbs, 5 in Ann Arbor and 5 in outlying Michigan cities on 24-hour operation June 14.

One Pathmark store on Long Island recently had enough business at 1 a.m. to keep nine checkout lanes busy.

What kind of people shop at 3 a.m.? The store owners say avoiding the late afternoon jam in the store and on the highways; families with a car available for shopping only at night; women whose husbands are home from work taking care of their children; someone who needs milk or aspirin in an emergency; partygoers buying snacks sometimes several times during the night; men coming off late work shifts; families that want their whole day free for recreation; and, even, some insomniacs.

The national trend for gas stations is the opposite.

A spokesman for the Society of Independent Gasoline Marketers of America said surveys of the society's members in 1967 and 1970 showd an 11.5 per cent decrease in the percentage of stations open all night.

In drug stores, although no national figures are available, the cutback trend appears just as great.

Charles Sandler of the National Restaurant Association said that if any trend is apparent, it is toward restaurants that serve one meal.

Paltz Student Gets AEC Grant

NEW PALTZ

William F. Rall, a physics student at the State University College of New Paltz, has been selected as a participant in the 1972 undergraduate research and training program administered for the Atomic Energy Commission's Division of Nuclear Education and Training by the Oak Ridge Associated Universities.

Rall's 10-week summer appointment gives him an opportunity to carry out research under the direction of a senior staff member at the U.S Atomic Energy Commission laboratory in Oak Ridge, Tennessee. He was selected from among approximately 300 applicants on the basis of academic performance and recommendations of professors of physics at the New Paltz school.

Rall is the son of Mrs. Dorothy M. Rall of 18 Park Avenue, King's Park.

Report Tavern Burglary Under Investigation

KINGSTON — A burglary at a North Front Street tavern that allegedley netted loot comprising several bottles of assorted whiskey valued at $192, was reported to city police on Monday.

Eddie's Sunnyside Bar at 47 North Front Street, was apparently entered through a second floor window leading to a bathroom. Detectives said a ladder believed to have been used by the intruder was found at the rear of the building. A hole had been cut in a screen on the window.

According to investigataors, two locks were pried off the inside of a rear door through which the thief, or thieves apparently made a getaway with the loot.

Detectives also are investigating the reported theft of a loaded 380 automatic pistol at Bigando's Market, 285 East Union Street. The operator of the market told police that two youths were in the store and after they left he discovered the gun was missing from a desk. The pistol was valued at $40.

Society's Image Changing

Madman and Mental Illness . . . Different View

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Society's image of the madman is changing. The once-sharp line that seemed to separate sanity from madness is blurring and the American public's concept of mental illness growing more vague.

The violent, seriously disturbed madman isn't so violent or disturbed as he used to be, psychiatrists are finding.

On the other hand, ordinary people whose counterparts a generation ago wouldn't have dreamed of seeking psychiatric help are doing just that today. They want to ease a variety of mental maladies ranging from plain unhappiness to lack of personal identity.

These shifting sands of mental health are concerning many psychiatrists. The subject received considerable attention during the American Psychiatric Association's recent meeting here.

What's responsible?

Psychiatrists are perplexed about the answer, but many place the blame on rapidly changing social and cultural values which are producing new stresses on the individual as he attempts to cope with the rigors of life.

"The changes going on in our culture are so fast that we can hardly catch our breath and adjust to them," said Dr. Roy Grinker, professor of psychiatry at the University of Chicago, who presented a scientific paper and then discussed it in an interview.

"Sigmund Freud once said psychoanalysis should be able to help the person adjust to the normally expectable environment," he said. "But now we have to modify that because the normally expectable environment has come to mean the unexpectable."

The result has been felt in psychiatrists' offices.

"There certainly has been a big change in the kind of people who come to see a psychiatrist," said Dr. Paul Chodoff, a Washington, D.C., psychiatrist in private practice and a clincial professor at George Washington University.

In a scientific paper, Chodoff said the new stresses are producing an "alienated man" who regards himself as a quantity to be marketed. He is searching for a guiding force to give him definition and boundaries.

"In an earlier age, he may have sought his salvation through religion," Chodoff said. "Today, he seeks it through psychotherapy."

Besides seeking psychiatrists to treat the traditional mental problems that don't require hospitalization, such as phobias, patients now seek psychiatric cures for loneliness, unhappiness, lack of fulfillment and lack of personal identity, he said.

Likewise, the public's idea of normal mental behavior is becoming blurred.

"There's a big grey area now where there didn't use to be," Chodoff said. "There is no sharp dividing line between mental normality and abnormality."

"People are more tolerant of deviation in behavior and thinking currently than they were a decade ago," said Dr. Ewald W. Busse, outgoing APA president.

But psychiatrists are puzzled about why the seriously mentally ill who require hospitalization, such as schizophrenics, manic depressives and other psychotics, don't show the severe symptoms they once did.

"Psychoses are changing to the point where they're not so severe, not so dramatic or histrionic," Grinker said. "And they're not requiring so much incarceration in a protective environment."

These changes, gradual at first but now apparently escalating, are causing psychiatrists to re-examine their role.

"Psychiatry has oversold itself or has been overbought and we have tended to become doctors of happiness who are supposed to make everybody gloriously happy all the time," Chodoff said.

Psychiatrists must bring an nd to the popular idea that ey have the magic answer to fe, Busse said.

"We must tell people trying to cope with what really is a normal problem of life that it's something they're just going to have to live with," he said.

Retail Course Scheduled at D. C. College

POUGHKEEPSIE

More than 20 women from disadvantaged areas of greater Poughkeepsie will soon be training at Dutchess Community College for employment with area retail stores.

Beginning July 5, Project WORK (Women Obtaining Retail Know-how) will offer a five-week series of lectures, field trips, counseling, and laboratory simulations which are intended to prepare the "students" for positions which have already been assured by area retail establishments.

The cooperative program between DCC and the Hudson Valley Opportunities Industrialization Center (HVOIC) is being made possible by a $10,529 grant under provisions of the Vocational Education Act.

George Freedman, chairman of DCC's retail business management program, describes the program as "a real contribution to county regional planning since it will serve the occupational needs of disadvantaged adult women."

"The retailing field is considered one of the most rewarding for women with its aspects of fashion and change," Professor Freedman remarked.

Participants will be instructed in fashion coordination, makeup, and wardrobe; principles of retailing; business mathematics and office skills; advertising and sales promotion; and seminars with local women who have been successful in merchandising.

Interested persons should contact Professor George Freedman at DCC, for further information.

'Fish' Group Meets June 27

HIGH FALLS

Neighbors in the Rondout Valley are organizing to form a corps of volunteer help, with a meeting to be held at 8 p.m., June 27 at St. Peter's School, Rosendale.

According to a statement of intent from the group, the concept is simply to provide volunteer help to those in need.

Examples cited are: reading to a blind person; baby-sitting in a broken home; providing transportation for the sick and elderly to hospitals and clinics; cooking and laundering for a large family in which the mother is sick; helping families find homes, employment and furniture; acting as a referral service.

The organization will be called "Fish," taking its name from the symbol carried by early Christians to identify each other. The Fish movement began in England and was fostered by the Anglican Church but the groups are nonsectarian.

Fish is not associated with any social or welfare agency. It does not purport to duplicate existing facilities — it simply provides a good-neighbor service on a personal level.

The duties of a Fish volunteer are divided so that each person is called upon just one day each month, but must be immediately available on that date through an answering service switchboard.

There is no charge for Fish services, which are primarily designed for emergencies. Volunteers are not asked to provide medical or other professional services.

Outgrow Bedwetting When?

Half the children wetting the bed at age 5 will still be wetting at age 11. And bedwetting can go ON and ON. Walter C. Alvarez, M.D., Prof. Emeritus, Mayo Clinic, says: "What can the doctor prescribe . . . He can send the child to a urologist or psychiatrist, but rarely can they help . . . We physicians should know that 1 in 100 Navy recruits are quickly dismissed because of enuresis." Pacific International has ended bewetting for tens of thousands in the past two decades, and if not caused by organic defect or disease, we can end the problem for both children and adults.

Jury Deadlocked On Salesman Case

KINGSTON — After some five hours of deliberation Monday, an Ulster County Court jury reported to Judge Raymond J. Mino that it was unable to reach a verdict in the case of Ronald Cole, 26, of 179 Elmendorf Street, charged with second degree larceny.

Cole, a former employe of Speisman's Bakery, 201 Foxhall Avenue, was charged with second degree grand larceny on Nov. 10, 1971, after alleged discrepancies in collections from customers were uncovered.

Ulster County District Attorney Francis J. Vogt said today that his office will "probably" bring the case to trial a second time, although he added that no definite decision has been made at this time.

The jury began deliberations at 12:15 p.m. Monday, and returned at 5:50 p.m. Monday, when it reported to Judge Mino that it could not reach agreement on a verdict. Mino excused the jury.

District Attorney Vogt was called to the stand Monday morning by Assistant District Attorney James K. Melbert, the prosecutor.

He testified that Cole told him last Nov. 10 that, "I took some money from Spiesman's and I want to talk to them (the Spiesman's) about it."

Melbert attempted to prove that there were "erroneous totals" on adding machine slips of Cole's and that the defendant kept the difference between the amount of receipts collected and the totals shown.

Cole's counsel, Robert A. MacKinnon, contended that the prosecution failed to show that Cole had the money in his possession. He also maintained that there was a reasonable doubt that Cole would have been able to manipulate the tapes while in the presence of his employer.

The four-day trial began a week ago and recessed over the weekend.

30 Are Injured In N. Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—At least 13 persons sustained injuries in a bombing attack during the night in the predominantly Protestant town of Ballymena, 40 miles north of Belfast, police said.

The attack late Monday night capped a day of escalating violence in Northern Ireland which left a British soldier dead and five other troopers wounded.

In Ballymena a bomb exploded in a car parked outside a labor exchange, wrecking the building and damaging a pub across the street.

Police said most of the injured were cut by flying glass while they were drinking in the pub.

In Belfast, gunmen ambushed an army patrol in the Roman Catholic Ardoyne area, wounding six soldiers in a hail of rifle and machine gun fire, an army spokesman said. One of the troopers died in the hospital, the spokesman said.

The soldier, the fourth British trooper killed in the province in the last 24 hours, was the 381st fatality in three years of violence in Northern Ireland.

Plant Odor Discussed in Saugerties

SAUGERTIES — A large crowd that attended Monday night's meeting of the Saugerties Village Board heard the spokesman for a local paper mill promise an odor abatement program for his firm.

L. W. Weisman, president of the Martin Cantine Paper Company, said that although the odors that had raised objections from village residents were unpleasant, they were not injurious to health as far as the company had been able to determine.

Village officials have been deluged with calls from people objecting to the odors coming from the plant, which opened this spring under new management after being closed for about a year.

Several of the people at the meeting said they had been made ill by the odors, and said they felt the odors detrimental to their health.

Weisman told the gathering that his firm had submitted plans for smoke and odor abatement to the Department of Environmental Conservation and expected a reply within a week.

Weisman said that if the state report shows that the plant is causing health hazards or is violating pollution laws, they will take immediate steps to correct the situation or if this is too costly, the plant will be closed.

He also agreed that in the event the state did not find the firm in violation, they would still attempt to alleviate the unpleasant odors.

Weisman said he would appear at the next board meeting on July 10 with definite plans for odor abatement. Considering this, the board agreed to allow the company to continue operating until then.

Welfare Plan Is Announced By Commission

SOUTH FALLSBURG, N. Y. (UPI)—A three-part plan aimed at beefing up administration of the state's welfare program has been announced by Ave Lavine, the new social services commissioner.

Lavine, in a talk to the State Public Welfare Association Monday, said his first goal was to restore "public confidence in the welfare system." He said the administrative changes would make the department more business like.

"The taxpayer has every right to be assured that welfare funds are spent in the most efficient and economical manner," he said, "and that public assistance grants are given only to those who meet established standards of eligibility."

Lavine, a career state employe who last served as Governor Rockefeller's director of employe relations, took over the welfare post June 1. The former commissioner, George K. Wyman, resigned amidst widespread claims by legislators that the $4 billion operation was poorly managed.

Among changes announced by Lavine, to take effect July 1,:

—Setting up regional offices in Rochester, Albany and New York City to work more closely with local social services districts.

—Creating an office of Audit and Quality Control in Albany to monitor all programs.

—Establishing an Office of Federal Relations to seek all possible federal aid.

Fish, Burns Agree ....No Billboards

MILLBROOK, N.Y. (AP) — The two principal opponents in a November congressional race in the Lower Hudson Valley have agreed to dispense with one of the time-honored conventions of electioneering—the use of posters and billboards.

But, not unexpectedly, politics colored even this decision, based on the candidates concern for the environment.

Republican Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., who lives in this Dutchess County community, made the proposal to John M. Burns of Carmel, the Democratic candidate for the 25th Congressional district seat.

"I have always objected to the use of such billboards and posters as vestiges of an earlier, less congested era," the congressman wrote Burns.

The Democrat concurred, but not without a bit of campaigning.

"His voting on the environment has not been that good," Burns said, "but I'm happy to see any forward step."

Shawangunk Opposed to Welfare Move

WALLKILL — The Shawangunk Town Board has gone on record as opposing a reported move by the Ulster County Legislature to take welfare administration away from the towns and consolidate it at the county level.

The Board voted the action at its Monday night meeting, saying that it felt that local social services officers were more familiar wih local conditions and could do a better job than county officers who might not be as familiar with local conditions.

Several welfare officers in Ulster County towns have resigned recently in protest against what they called county interference in establishing eligibility for welfare payments and in administering the programs.

The town board will conduct an informational meeting in the Wallkill Middle School auditorium on July 13 to discuss the recently proposed Town of Shawangunk Industrial Development Agency.

Officials said that five persons from the New York State Chamber of Commerce would be on hand to provide information, that debating would not be permitted and that non-town residents would not be allowed to paricipate in the meeting.

Newburgh Man Is Arrested

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — A Newburgh man has been arrested and accused of furnishing the guns used in an aborted robbery attempt at a suburban shopping center bank Monday, State Police said today.

Joseph Miranda, 26, was charged with criminal facilitation, arraigned and remanded to the Orange County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail.

Two men, armed with a revolver and shotgun, were apprehended after state troopers broke up the robbery attempt at a Bankers Trust Hudson Valley branch. A third escaped on foot and later may have stolen an automobile in the area, troopers said.

The two captured men were identified as Thomas Ponesse and Lawrence T. DeSmedt, both 23 and of Cornwall. DeSmedt was wounded slightly in the forehead when a trooper fired a shotgun blast as the suspect fled from the bank.

Both were charged with first-degree robbery and were being held in the county jail in lieu of $15,000 bail each. Authorities meanwhile continued their search for the third suspect, who had been standing outside the bank, apparently listening in on police broadcasts with a short-wave radio.

June Wedding in Old Dutch Church

MRS. DALE E. VAN GAASBEEK
(Valerie Jean Vogel)
(Fitzgerald Studio)

Old Dutch Reformed Church, Kingston, was the setting for the wedding of Valerie Jean Vogel of Kingston and Dale Edward VanGaasbeek of Kingston on Saturday, June 3. The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool officiated at the double ring ceremony. Traditional wedding selections were provided.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Peter Vogel of 184 Albany Avenue, Kingston, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Frederick Ertel of Kingston and the late Frederick Keller Ertel. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Glenn D. VanGaasbeek of 37 Windsor Drive, Kingston.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of silk organza fashioned with an empire bodice and long fitted sleeves of peau d'ange lace. The high neckline and sleeves were edged with fluted self-fabric and the A-line skirt was bordered with matching lace extending to the chapel length train. She wore a stylized headpiece of lace petals and seed pearls to which was shirred her triple tiered silk illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses and white marguerites accented with lavender and pink.

Stephanie Vogel, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Attendants were Pamela Ann Williamson, New Brunswick, N.J.; Victoria Chambers St. John and Ellen Windsor St. John, both cousins of the bride, Kingston; and Barbara Ann Bushnell of Stone Ridge. Bianaca Vogel was flower girl for her sister.

For her bridal party, the bride selected a color scheme of bon bon pink and orchid. The organza gowns were fashioned with ruffled necklines, trimmed with floral braid, and featured pleated skirts. They wore matching picture hats banded with satin ribbon and carried bouquets of pompons and marguerites accented with lavender.

Gary Van Gaasbeek, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were George P. Vogel Jr., Kingston, brother of the bride; Andrew Stein and Allan Green, both of Long Island; and Bruce Hilton of Kingston.

A reception was given at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School and Penn Hall Junior College, is a member of Junior League. She made her debut at the Mid-Hudson Cotillion in 1969.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School and Colgate University where he was a member of Phi Gamma Delta, is attending Adelphi University Graduate School, majoring in Psychology.

The couple will reside at 334 West Walnut Street, Long Beach, L.I.

Beverly R. Sklon Prospective Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sklon of 85 Manor Place, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Beverly Rose, to Edward Blinderman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Blinderman of Brookline, Mass.

Miss Sklon is a graduate of Nancy Taylor Secretarial and Finishing School of New York City and is employed as executive secretary for George B. H. Macomber Co. in Boston, Mass.

Her fiance is attending Northwestern University.

An August wedding is planned.

Tiny Tips

YOGURT DRESSING

You can use yogurt as a dressing for chicken salad. In this case you may want to add curry powder and onion powder plus minced fresh parsley to the yogurt to make the dressing.

TASTY TREAT

Cook sliced zucchini and onion strips in olive oil in a skillet. Add canned stewed tomatoes and reheat. Serve in sauce dishes.

REMOVING DISCOLORATION

To remove discoloration from a pyroceram or glass coffee pot, fill with a liquid chlorine bleach solution and let stand overnight. To make the solution, use one part bleach to eight parts water.

Koch-Fisk Nuptials

MRS. HARLEY J. FISK
(Helen Anne Koch)
(Clair Pruett Studios)

Helen Anne Koch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Koch, 204 North Concord Avenue, Havertown, Pa., became the bride of Harley John Fisk, 71 Garden Street, Kingston, on Saturday, June 3 at Resurrection Lutheran Church, Havertown. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley R. Fisk of 961 Orlando Street, Kingston.

The Rev. Willard I. Hackenburb officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory, A-line satin gown with a matching mantilla. Venise lace trimmed the full sleeves, yoke and veil. She carried a nosegay of daisies and roses.

Mrs. Ralph Brauer of Minneapolis, Minn. was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Marion Kaufman of Philadelphia, Pa., and Miss Brenda Lee of Fayetteville, N. C.

Kenneth Knapp of Kingston served as best man. Ushers were Robert Fisk of Kingston and George Koch Jr. of Havertown.

A reception was given by Lanerch Country Club, Havertown.

The bridegroom is employed at the City of Kingston Laboratory.

When they return from their wedding trip to Florida, they will reside at 71 Garden Street, Kingston.

Birthday Party Marks 17th Year

A surprise birthday party was given for Janet VanKleeck Wednesday, June 7 on her 17th birthday. The party was given at her home by her uncle, Burton Bodie of Shokan. Miss VanKleeck is the daughter of Mrs. Gladys VanKleeck of Kingston.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Caparn and three children; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. VanKleeck and three children; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne VanKleeck and two children; Mrs. Gladys VanKleeck, Miss Linda VanKleeck, Miss Janet VanKleeck and Burton Bodie.

Miss VanKleeck also received gifts from relatives and friends who were unable to attend.

Exchanges Marriage Vows: New Paltz

Nancy Jane Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richard Cole of Route 5, Box 28, Saugerties, became the bride of Robert John Hajek, son of Mrs. Helen Hajek of 32 N. Manheim Boulevard, New Paltz, and the late Theodore Hajek, on Saturday, June 3 at St. Joseph's Church, New Paltz.

The Rev. Joseph Hickey officiated at the double ring ceremony. Art Milbenberger and two other guitarists, all members of The Collarmen group from Mt. St. Alphonsus in Esopus, played selections they had created for the couple.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was escorted by her father. She chose a cathedral silk organza and lace gown which featured a long train. A jeweled tiara held her nylon veil and she carried a bouquet of lily of the valley, violets, pink roses, cornflowers and baby's breath.

Mrs. Jannette Cole of Rutherford, N.J. was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaid were the Misses Nancy Ducas, Sharon Hoffman, Janet Klomm, all of Saugerties. Linda Beveridge of High Point, N.C. was flower girl for her cousin.

For her bridal party, the bride chose a color scheme of blue, lilac, green, yellow and pink gowns styled in the A-line fashion with short scalloped sleeves. They wore matching headpieces and carried bouquets of cornflowers, daisies, statice and baby's breath.

Dr. Theodore Hajek, brother of the bridegroom, Buffalo, was best man. Ushers were Peter Hajek, brother of the bridegroom, Florence, S.C.; Leonard Jamiolkowski, cousin of the bridegroom, New Paltz; Richard Cole, brother of the bride, Saugerties. Thomas Cole, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

A reception for 70 guests was given at Hickory Manor in New Paltz.

The bride, a graduate of Saugerties High School, is attending State University College at New Paltz where she is an education major. Her husband, an alumnus of New Paltz High School, is attending SUNY at New Paltz as an economic major.

When they return from their wedding tour of Canada, they will reside at New Paltz.

Meeting Tonight

The Literary Group of Kingston Branch, American Association of University Women, will have its final meeting of the season this evening at the home of Mrs. Russell Robbins, Saugerties. Next year's plans include exploring the works of American Women novelists of the past 10 years. The Literary Faculty of State University of New York at Albany will assist in preparing the reading list. All are welcome.

Look Here Mrs. Homemakes

A man's home may be his castle, but does his lordship spend any time taking care of the royal quarters? Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist, has the following information to offer.

The average American husband contributes about 1.6 hours each day, or 11 hours each week to household chores and that amount doesn't appear to vary whether his wife decides to take an outside job or not. Husbands spend more time on house care activities than any other type of household work. These activities include the care of the inside and outside of the house and of the family's second house — their car. Husband's contribute over a half hour per day to house maintenance and yard care. They also contribute an average of about 20 minutes a day to family care. This is less often for physical care of children than for such activities as helping children with lessons and chauffering them to meetings. Husbands also offer some help with cooking, marketing, and record keeping.

Mom is also getting a helping hand from her youngsters, particularly if she works outside the home.

The full-time housewife who spends an average of 51 hours each week caring for the home received little help in washing, ironing, and sewing. If the woman held an outside job, she usually spent five hours a day in home chores and spouses did seem to increase their cooking help from six minutes to 12 minutes a day. However, in each of the activities surveyed in Syracuse, New York, more than two-thirds of the husbands contributed no time.

School children aged 6 to 17, on the other hand, appeared to help out more at home, especially if their mother worked. The study showed that almost 30 per cent of the total work load was contributed by teenagers in families where there were no younger children and the mother held a part-time job. These teenagers gave 2.7 hours a day to chores, as compared to 2.1 hours given by youngsters in families with the mother at home.

The homemaker, whether she is employed or not, still apparently carries a heavy work load. When the woman is employed, she averages 10 hours a day of office and housework, but the average contribution made by husbands and schoolage children remains quite similar to that made in families with the mother not working.

The husband's total work time, including his job and household work, averages 51 hours per week. But the wife's work time, if she is employed and has younger children, can run well up to 70 hours each week.

Doubling in Belts

Belts have slimmed down for the summer and a current trend is to wear more than one at a time. As many of three of these skinny belts can be worn over a sweater to create a special color effect.

* * *

Beach Bag

For a day at the beach, make up your own little kit of beauty aids that you can carry along with you. Include things like waterproof eye make-up, barettes, ribbons, tissues, a moisturizer, and any make-up you want to use.

* * *

From Belly to Beach

Belly dancing jewelry will be seen on the beaches this summer. With those tiny bikinis, chains or jewels will either wrap around the waist or dangle from the hips.

* * *

CABBAGE ROLLS

You can keep meat-stuffed cabbage rolls (cooked) in your freezer for as long as two months.

* * *

FOR FRENCH BREAD

Mix a tablespoon of dry onion soup mix (just as it comes from the package) with half a cup of softened butter and spread over slices of French bread (kept in loaf shape). Heat the bread, wrapped in foil, before serving.

LITTLE GARDENS—The Saugerties Society of Little Gardens Flower Show was held on June 14. Among those responsible for the success of the show were (l-r) Mrs. Hugo Knauert, chairman and creativity award winner; Mrs. Frank Greco, co-chairman and tri-color award winner; President Mrs. John Whritenor and Mrs. Robert Finger, who won the award of merit for a "Peace" rose. Mrs. Finger also copped the Horticultural Sweepstakes Award and Mrs. Knauert the Artistic Sweepstakes Award. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Readers Speak Out About 'Bill'

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

Dear Abby
BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The mother who said her son put on an act in public, slurping, giggling, crossing his eyes and falling all over the place "Like a retarded person" owes the retarded an apology.

My brother is a retarded mongoloid, and he never behaved any such way. In fact, his manners are far above most normal people.

I've also visited the State Hospital for Retarded in Fort Wayne, Ind., and I've never seen anything but politeness and good manners there.

YOUNG HOOSIER

DEAR ABBY: I am writing for the Comparative Religions class of Thomasville High School, Thomasville, Ga.

We held an interesting discussion on the letter from the mother whose 16-year-old son, Bill, mimicked a mentally retarded person "to make people laugh" and his father was his best audience.

Our class consists of students from the 9th thru 12th grades, and we'd like for "Bill" to know how his peers feel about his behavior.

Bill needs help. He is trying to get the attention which he never received as a child. A suggested cure would be for him to work with retarded children.

And as far as Bill's father is concerned, I think we all left class with a greater appreciation of our own.

A LETTER FROM GA.

DEAR ABBY: I am really angry about that teen-aged Canadian boy who acted like a nut on the street. I can't understand why his mother didn't hit him with the first thing handy.

One way to cure him would be to take him (and his father, who thought the performance was sidesplitting) on a tour of the nearest state mental hospital, including the back wards where they keep the most severely afflicted.

If that boy and his father were still laughing by the time they finished the tour, she should have them committed.

ESTHER IN IOWA

DEAR ABBY: Concerning that 16-year-old Canadian kid who put on a "retarded" act in public to get attention. My father said if that were his son he would give him a good boot in his Francis.

SECOND THE MOTION IN OHIO

DEAR ABBY: Who says Americans have lost their sense of humor? The letter from the mother whose son shakes, trembles, crosses his eyes, slurps and giggles and pretends to be "retarded," and whose father thinks it is hilarious, brightened the day for me.

The mother complains that Bill puts on this act while the family watches TV, and the father, convulsed with laughter, is holding his sides.

No generation gap here! Wouldn't many a parent of a surly, long-haired lout who spends his time goodness knows where, doing heaven knows what and getting home who knows when, be glad to trade sons with Bill's parents?

WALTER IN ST. LOUIS

DEAR WALTER: I'm not so sure.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to invite "Bill," that normal 16-year-old boy, to visit the school my son attends. It's a special school for mentally retarded children. I'm sure Bill could pick up a few pointers for his "act" — that is if he didn't crack up after watching these conscientious teachers work for hours, and weeks and sometimes months tryng to teach a full-grown child how to button a button or tie a shoelace.

Doing the Right Thing

Dear Mrs. Post:

With buffets and smorgasbords becoming more popular, many of us find ourselves presented with a problem. What amount is considered correct for a tip?

In one restaurant we went to, the waitress brought the soup and the coffee to the table. Of course we served ourselves the other courses. We got very little service and felt fifteen per cent of the total bill was too much.

At another restaurant, only the coffee was served to us by a young waiter, smiling and cheerful all the time. Altho he actually served the people less, the service was terrific. This included crumbing the table, refilling the water glasses, removing the dirty dishes when we were at the buffet table. There was no doubt we would leave him a tip of fifteen per cent. Some felt this was too generous.

Since tipping pays for the service one receives, I find it is sometimes too much to tip fifteen per cent at a buffet dinner. Please help me.

Mrs. M.

Dear Mrs. M.:

You have really answered your own question. The amount of the tip should reflect the degree and quality of the service. When little is offered at a serve-yourself type restaurant, ten per cent of the bill is ample. When the service is all that it could possibly be under the circumstances, fifteen per cent is not too much.

Whom do you tip, when, and how much? You will find the answers to these questions in my booklet "The Etiquette of Tipping." To get a copy, send thirty-five cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper.

Friday Program Announced

Joe Prystupa of Feeding Hills, Mass. will be guest caller at Lefooters Western Style Square Dance Club's dance on Friday. The dance will be held at Hurley Reformed Church hall, off Route 209, and will start at 8:30 p.m.

One of New England's outstanding callers, club members will recall dancing to his calling at the New England Square Dance Convention held in Springfield, Mass. in April. All club level dancers are invited to attend.

At a recent Lefooter dance, Club Chairman Warren Mann announced that, beginning in the fall, Lefooters will be having two club callers. Cliff Brodeur of Pittsfield, Mass., will serve as primary club caller and will be the square dance instructor at the annual Lefooter Workshop starting in September. Kip Garvey of Shrewsbury, Mass., will serve as associate club caller. Brodeur and Garvey will each call at one Lefooter dance a month.

Chairman Mann also announced that the club has made plans for two public exhibition dances and a picnic dance. On July 4th, the Lefooters will be dancing on the tennis court at Cantine Field in Saugerties as a part of the Saugerties Jaycees' July 4th celebration. The dancing will start at 2:30 p.m. and will be both an exhibition and a "fun" dance where the public will be invited to join. On August 12, the Lefooters will appear at the Ulster County Fair Grounds in New Paltz. It will be a similar type of dance as the one in Saugerties. On August 20, the club will have a picnic dance with Cliff Brodeur calling. Time and place for this event will be announced.

Other summer dances are being planned and will be announced at a later date.

JOSEPH LEON AND MONICA MORAN as they appeared in LAST OF THE RED HOT LOVERS opening night in the Woodstock Playhouse. The show, a Neil Simon comedy, will be on stage through Sunday, June 25. (Van Cort photo)

Woodstock Opens With Simon Comedy

WOODSTOCK, N.Y. — Joseph Leon, a man whose acting credits would take hours to spell out, had the honor of opening the season at Woodstock Playhouse Saturday night in Neil Simon's comedy LAST OF THE RED HOT LOVERS. The first nighter audience drew a very healthy attendance from Kingston and with the immediate local area theatre-goers, it was a packed house. Champagne bubbles were popping during intermission while Executive Director Edgar Rosenblum, white formal and all, greeted loyal supporters of the summer circuit.

Directed by Harold G. Baldridge, the play was a take-off on what a man might face when after 23 years he wants one last fling with another woman. The author introduces three distinctively different types — a cold-blooded near nyphomaniac; a young, flipped-out gal who gets her kicks out of smoking grass; and a middle-aged matron who decides to turn tables on her cheating husband. All of which provides fertile ground for Neil Simon's type of brilliant wit.

The second act was by far the best in Woodstock Production. It pitted Joseph Leon against Monica Moran, who was cast as Bobbi Michele, the pot-head. Both complimented each other's acting and produced one of the funniest scenes on stage. Miss Moran, a contract player for 20th Century Fox and a gal with many TV credits, gave a smooth, beautiful performance.

The first act was not quite as loose but Leon, with his vast store of acting talents, kept the production on an even keel. Katie Anders, who has had numerous roles in stock in both musicals and dramatic plays as well as television and in films, turned in a commendable performance. Woodstock audiences will remember her as Fraulein Kost in last year's CABARET.

Jennie Ventriss, who will be remembered for past performances at Woodstock Playhouse in JOE EGG, AMERICA HURRAH and YOUR OWN THING, gave an excellent interpretation of the mature woman who discovers her husband has been cheating on her. A veteran actress, she played Golde opposite Zero Mostel, Jan Peerce and Theo Bikel in FIDDLER and toured with Milt Kamen in TAKE MY WIFE.

Handling various production aspects were John McGroder, sets; Ronald Wallace, lighting; and Bill Walker, costumes. Nina Seely is back as production manager for her third season. She is the production stage manager for the Long Wharf Theatre in New Haven, Conn., and also worked in this capacity for the New Jersey ballet, opera companies and various touring companies.

Harold Baldridge has been resident director of the Woodstock Playhouse for the past nine seasons and has directed more than 65 of its productions. He will, however, be taking a leave of absence for part of the season to be guest director at the Banff School of Fine Arts in Canada. David K. Snyder is serving as technical director.

LAST OF THE RED HOT LOVERS will continue on stage at Woodstock Playhouse through June 25. Curtain is at 8:40 each evening and 7:30 p. m. on Sundays.

Fashion Tips

Best Sellers

If pastels are best sellers for summer, why not carry them on into winter? A new designer-name on New York's Seventh Avenue is doing just that. The designer is Willi Smith of Didgits, and the Philadelphia born Smith uses pinks, blues and mauves in pants, skirts, tops and his fake fur jackets and coats.

Pocket Magic

Women's clothes are taking another cue from men's wear—pockets of all sizes, zippered, tab, slash, patch or concealed. The bellows pocket, with pleats, expands to hold almost as much as a purse. To go with pockets, there's now a new Kodak Instamatic camera, only one inch thick to fit without obvious bulge. You can even get long evening dresses with hidden pockets into which the small cameras fit.

Spring Simplicity

Simplicity for spring is a sophisticated, rather than innocent, look. Movie-star toppers wrapped around the waist, pleated flowing pants, backless dresses and cashmere sweaters will be part of the basics.

WOODSTOCK CHURCH FAIR—On Saturday, July 8 the Woodstock Dutch Reformed Church will hold its annuual fair and food sale at the church, rain or shine. One of the highlights of the fair, open from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m., will be the display of handicrafts by women in the congregation. With some of the items are (l-r) Kay Freer and Rosella Osborn. Public is invited to enjoy the day of fun for all members of the family. (Freeman photo by Haines)

New Ways to Enjoy Fresh Watermelon

"Who needs to be told how to enjoy a watermelon?" you may ask. A great big slice is divine in the hot weather, but watermelon is not just to eat out of hand. It's a wonderful ingredient for making delectable desserts — and a beautiful, cooling beverage, too!

Dr. David Livingston, the one linked with Stanley, discovered watermelons growing wild in the desert and semi-desert regions of tropical Africa, and published accounts of his find in 1858. A United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association publication says watermelons were cultivated in some semi-arid districts in Africa as an important source of water for use during dry periods. Early colonists started growing them in our country, and we've been enjoying them mightily ever since.

"Enjoy" is the word for Watermelon Mousse, the most delectable of kitchen-doings anyone might imagine. The secret of this dessert is pureeing the watermelon. To do that, remove the seeds from chunks of the fruit, and put the watermelon in a blender, or through a sieve. This mixture will look cloudy but it won't affect the creamy texture of the mousse.

When you are making Watermelon Delight Drink, the appearance of the watermelon juice is important. You want it pink, pretty and clear. To achieve this, simply put the seeded watermelon through a food mill. Zipped with a little fresh lemon juice, and served over ice, Watermelon Delight Drink is one of the great happenings in summer.

Here's a beautiful gelled salad to grace your summer table. It's called Minted Watermelon Mold. Make it on a ring mold and fill the center with pretty pink watermelon balls. Fresh mint in the gelled mixture and a minted sour cream dressing make this a very beautiful dish to serve on a sizzling summer day — a nice way to entertain in hot wether. Everyone will surely want the recipe so keep it handy.

Maturity is difficult to determine without plugging and testing. Usually, ripe melons of good quality are firm, symmetrical, fresh looking with an attractive waxy bloom. The lower side should be somewhat yellowish where the melon contacted the soil.

Watermelon Mousse

Two and one quarter cups pureed watermelon
One envelope unflavored gelatine
One cup sugar
One tablespoon lemon juice
One cup heavy cream

To puree watermelon, remove seeds from about two and one-half cups watermelon chunks. Puree in electric blender or by mashing through coarse sieve. Soften gelatine in one-quarter cup cold watermelon puree. Heat remaining two cups pureed watermelon in a medium saucepan over low heat until almost boiling. Add softened gelatine and stir until dissolved. Remove from heat; add sugar and lemon juice. Chill, stirring occasionally, until the mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Whip cream and fold in. Turn into a four-cup mold. Freeze. Unmold and garnish with lemon slices, melon balls and mint sprigs. Makes: Six servings.

Watermelon Delight Drink

One-quarter large watermelon
Three tablesppons fresh lemon juice
One-quarter cup sugar
Lemon slices
Watermelon balls

Cut watermelon into chunks and remove seeds. Put through a food mill to make about three cups of clear juice. Add lemon juice and sugar. Pour over ice and garnish with watermelon balls and lemon slices. MAKES: Four servings.

Minted Watermelon Mold

Four cups watermelon puree, divided
Two envelopes unflavored gelatine
Two tablespoons chopped fresh mint
Two teaspoons grated lime rind
One tablespoon fresh lime juice
One-half cup sugar
One-quarter teaspoon salt
Watermelon balls
Fresh mint

To prepare watermelon, remove seeds from five cups watermelon chunks. Puree in electric blender or by mashing through coarse sieve. Soften gelatine in one cup cold watermelon puree. Heat one cup watermelon puree to boiling, pour over mint leaves and let stand for 10 minutes. Strain and pour mint mixture over softened gelatine. Stir to dissolve gelatine. Stir in remaing two cups watermelon puree, lime rind and juice, sugar and salt. Turn into a one-quart ring mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on serving plate. Fill center of mold with watermelon balls and garnish with fresh sprigs. Serve with Mint Cream Dressing.

MAKES: six to eight servings

*Mint Cream Dressing

One cup sour cream
One tablespoon milk
One teaspoon chopped fresh mint

Stir all ingredients until well mixed.

FRESH WATERMELON MOUSSE is a great summer idea. So is a Minted Watermelon Mold, and a refreshing beverage called Watermelon Delight Drink. Get your watermelon in the market now and enjoy these unusual uses for it.

Hints From Heloise

THAT DIRTY KITCHEN SCREEN

Dear Folks:

Have you noticed your kitchen window screens lately? These are about the hardest screens in the entire house to clean.

I know over five different ways to clean them, but let me tell you how I found out the easiest way this weekend.

While visiting a girl friend, I noticed that hers was absolutely clobbered with carbon (that's the sticky, gummy vapor you get from cooking bacon, frying pork chops, etc.). It is exacity like glue, except it's yellow.

Now, here's what happens in a kitchen. These oily vapors stick to the screens — whether nylon or metal. Then when you open your windows, fine silt comes in and sticks to the glue-like substance.

Well, we all know you can put 'em in the baintub or take them outside and wash them, but just as I decided to tackle my friend's screen, I happened to spy some paper towels right next to the window. I pulled four off, wadded them into a ball and started rubbing away on the inside of that screen. Something told me that if I put anything liquid on them right away, I'd have a mess on my hands.

Immediately, gobs of "balls" formed by the silt and dust which had adhered to the greasy substance flaked off. I was amazed.

I kept unwadding and rewadding that old paper towel and, the more I rubbed, the more balls came off dropping onto the sill.

Finally, when I got to where no more would drop off, I mixed up a tiny amount of ammonia and water and, starting at the top of the screen, wiped back and forth gently with a small brush.

Suds formed and ran down. Then, since this was so bubbly and opaque, and it all turned yellow immediately, (carbon again, gals) I removed the cap from an empty plastic bottle, filled it with warm water, and even more gently, held it at the top of the screen and let the water run down.

All those dirty suds floated to the bottom. Then all we had to do was clean off the sill.

My friend was delighted. "For months" she said, "I had hated the sight of that screen, but I didn't know how to take it off, didn't know how to wash it and finally stopped caring."

Dear Heloise:

Did you know that all washable knit fabric should be properly pre-shrunk before use in sewing?

I learned the hard way when making a pair of knit slacks for my husband recently. After washing, the slacks were a good inch shorter than before and I had to let out the hem and put in a false one.

So, be sure to thoroughly wet the fabric and let dry before cutting out the pattern.

Seamstress

Dear Heloise:

We all know that our husband's shirts should be rotated so that they all receive equal wear.

I number each shirt on the inside of the collar with a felt tipped pen. And, in that way, keep better track of which shirts should be worn.

Housewife

Dear Heloise:

I had a quart plastic refrigerator dish filled with broken pieces of fruit cake, which I couldn't bear to throw away. So, I crumbled them up, added to a one-layer white cake mix and, with a few more nuts, presto, I had a five-by-seven fruit cake.

JUSTICE LARKIN

Ceremonies Set June 27

Justice Larkin KHS Commencement Speaker

KINGSTON — The Senior Class Banguet to be held Friday, June 23, at the Capri Restaurant will inaugurate five days of commencement activities for approximately 640 graduates of Kingston High School.

Commencement exercises will be held in Dietz Stadium on Tuesday, June 27, beginning at 8 p. m. In case of inclement weather the ceremonies will be held in the Kate Walton Field House at the same date and time.

The Hon. John L. Larkin, a New York State Supreme Court Justice, will address graduates, relatives and friends as the principal speaker. Justice Larkin, a Kingston native and a KHS graduate, received his bachelor of arts degree from Holy Cross College and his doctor of laws degree from the Albany Law School. He has been a Supreme Court Judge since January, 1971.

Dan H. Allen, high school principal, will present diploma candidates to Louis A. Salzmann, superintendent of Kingston City Schools Consolidated, who will in turn present them to Thomas Reynolds, president of the Board of Education, who will distribute special awards and speak to the graduates. Individual graduates will be called forth to receive their diplomas by William Scafidi, assistant principal.

The Kingston High School Band, directed by Anthony Hummel, will play the Processional and Recessional.

Also addressing the gathering will be Valedictorian Gloria Levine and Salutatorian Julie Gerdts.

Included in the list of graduates are 33 honors graduates, the largest such group in the school's history.

In addition to the valedictorian and salutatorian, the group includes Jonathan Harding, Dana Wiser, Elizabeth Laskowski, Carol Walker, Peter Rogerson, Barbara Gile, Deborah Wiands, Michael Woinoski, John Iannotti and Mary Beth Chase.

Also Thomas Sorci, Valerie Altieri, Gregory Melahn, Deborah Levine, Joel Feldman, Ann Flanagan, Linda Leiching, Laura Voigtlander, Mary Beth Smith, and Kristine Rasmussen.

Also Bryan Haltermann, Karen Schaller, Daniel Brennan, Eric Burger, Susan Kinsch, Robert Golian, Allen Olsen, Charles Chuang, Robert E. Stevens, Judith Motskin, and Kathi Greer.

Other activities scheduled for graduation weekend include a baccalaureate service at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, June 25, which is open to the public, and a Commencement Day at the Concord Hotel, Kiamesha Lake, on Monday, June 26, with admission by ticket only.

Rondout Ceremonies Slated for June 25

KYSERIKE — A class of approximately 175 seniors will receive diplomas at graduation exercises of Rondout Valley Central High School in the high school gymnasium on Sunday, June 25.

The high school band, under the direction of Lee Herrington, will begin the ceremonies with a musical prelude at 3 p.m. and will also render the processional and recessional as part of the exercises.

In common with many other high schools in the mid-Hudson area, Rondout Valley graduates will not be addressed by an outside speaker. Instead they will hear speeches by Michael Botsakos, valedictorian, and Kristin Schoonmaker, salutatorian.

The high school chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Barbara Lottridge, will also take part in the ceremonies.

James Vertucci, principal of the high school, will present the graduating class to Robert A. Robertaccio, superintendent of schools, and Horace Sarr, president of the Board of Education, who will award diplomas.

The class will sing the Alma Mater to conclude the graduation ceremonies.

Members of the Nationa lHonor Society chapter included in the graduating class are, in addition to the valedictorian and saluatorian, Joann Connard, Ronald Hall, Eirlys Robertshaw, Catherine Salavatore, and Walter Zaharchuk.

110 in the Class of '72 At Highland High School

HIGHLAND — Commencement exercises for approximately 110 graduating seniors at Highland Central High School will take place Sunday, June 25, at 3 p.m.

The program will take place on the front lawn of the high school. If weather is inclement, the exercises will be held indoors in the school auditorium at the same time and date.

The high school band under Robert Turner will open the program with "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar and highlights from "Purlie" by Odell.

Jeffrey Stokes will give the salutatorian's address, followed by the valedictory address by Cindy Schoonmaker.

Special awards will be presented by William G. Miller Jr., the high school principal, and students will receive their diplomas from John Elia, president of the Board of Education.

The program will conclude with an address by Donald C. Baines, the district's supervising principal.

Landfill...Ellenville Problem

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE

Village officials said the Ellenville village landfill is on its last legs at the board meeting Monday night, and based their main hopes on the Town of Wawarsing.

The dump discussion occurred at a public hearing held during the meeting on the setting up of a fee schedule for use of the landfill, with emphasis on the charging of commercial haulers for dump use.

Mayor Robert Dowling was comparatively optimistic about the life left in the land fill. At one point during the meeting he said the dump could last another "Nine months to a year." Coordinator Howard Weiss didn't think it would be that long.

"Ellenville is going to be without a landfill in six months," he said.

The Town of Wawarsing presently contracts with the village for use of the landfill. The town pays $15,000 a year, or $7,500 per six-month contract period.

The town has been looking for a landfill site of its own, other than the one it already has in Kerhonkson, for about four years; it has been looking "for too long", according to Dowling.

If the town finds a site, the village will use up the space left in the present landfill, and go out of the landfill business if it can, Dowling said.

The landfill has many problems besides lack of space. The expense of operation and the lack of control over dumping by private persons are two of the biggest listed by officials.

Weiss said an extra custodian was needed at the dump just to tell people where to dump. "They come in there like gypsies," he said, "from all over."

The expense of operating the landfill will be rising since the site is running out of dirt, and it has to be hauled in. Weiss pointed out that there was no money in the budget set aside for dirt-hauling.

The board had no definite fee schedule worked out for Monday's meeting, though Dowling said they knew what other communities were charging at their landfills. For commercial haulers, New Paltz is $1000 per truck per year, Montgomery $100 a month, and Thompson $6 per load.

Dowling said there would be no fee, if the board adopts a fee schedule, for private dumping.

Action was tabled on the fee setting, with no date set for its coming up again.

The board voted to give Unlimited Services of American, Inc. permission to erect their litter disposals in the village. The company furnishes the insurance, and sells advertising on the disposals to local merchants.

The only cost to the village is the emptying of the disposals; they are maintained by the company. Dowling said the idea was becoming widespread in the state, and those present who had seen the disposals in use thought them attractive and practical.

The village's Environonmental Conservation Committee is planning a second pick-up of papers and magazines for Saturday from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. Pick-up is at curbside, and papers are to be bound for easy handling. Dowling endorsed the drive, and urged all to make use of it.

The board agreed to the sponsoring of a circus to raise funds by the Ellenville Police Youth Association. The circus is scheduled for Sunday, August 27, according to the PYA.

Mid-Hudson Association... ...Organizational Session

POUGHKEEPSIE

Many small businesses from the Mid-Hudson Valley are expected to be represented at an all-day organizational session Friday of the Mid-Hudson Small Business Association.

According to Joseph S. Babiarz, acting chairman, the alliance will work as a cohesive lobby to repeal laws working a hardship on small businesses and to enact laws to help stave off the competition of giant chains.

The cutoff point of what will be determined to be "small business" has been set at those grossing less than $1 million annually.

The meeting is scheduled for the Exempt Firemen Association Annex, 201 Mansion Street, Poughkeepsie, and governmental representatives on the county, state, and national level have been invited.

Among the aims proposed by Babiarz in a recent release were: Having the Internal Revenue Service return 25 per cent of federal taxes to the small businessman because he is an "unpaid collector" of social security, withholding tax, and unemployment tax, and to eliminated penalties for late filing by the IRS.

This same request is also directed to New York State for state withholding tax, sales taxes, and unemployment tax.

Restructuring the social security payment system because the 1943 law, on which the system is based, is "obsolete."

The statement notes that there were more bankruptcies in the United States in Feb. 1972 than in the history of the country and that people are moving out of the state and country with the small businessman picking up the burden of the rising taxes.

And it hit at the banking law which allows banks to hold escrow for unpaid taxes on real estate and insurance without paying any interest, while people must wait six months to receive tax returns from the government with no penalty or interest paid.

Babiarz said he had talked with representatives of numerous federal and state departments about his alleged inequities in taxation, and had usually received referral to the 1943 social security law.

"I get talk that they are under Civil Service, therefore they must comply under their orders," he said.

He commented that the so-called "hot dog sales tax" has placed an additional burden on small businessmen, and he struck out at the Civil Service employees who, he forecast, will drive people out of business as "the local small taxpayer gets less for his money, pays more, but we had better results under our other type of government. . ."

Babiarz said he is not attempting to represnet "General Motors, Ford, or IBM" who must have accountants, computer operators, and lawyers on yearly salary to cope with the bookkeeping, but is trying to deal with the "terrific burden on small business. . ."

And he advocated the alternative of "placing the tax where it belongs, to the foundations and their donors."

Sports City Plans

MILAN

Further expansion plans of All-American Sports City in this Northern Dutchess town hinge on its submission of a new plan for a planned development district to the Town Board.

At a recent Board meeting, the date of July 10 was tentatively set for a public hearing on this new submission, which Councilman Richard Laibach said this week he had not yet seen.

The former plan was disapproved by the Town Board during a May session with some specific recommendations made to Sports City representatives in order that the development might meet with town zoning regulations.

They included: having all parcels within the district at least two acres per dwelling unit; having all road specifications meet with requirementts; and not having enough open land contained within the projected building area.

Some Board members expressed their opinions that the overall plan did not meet with the intent of the zoning law.

A special meeting between the two groups was subsequently held, and some promises made by Sports City officials. Among the resutls was a pledge to work out an open land guarantee more suitably.

The land development company, meanwhile, has served the town with a show-cause order in Dutchess County Supreme Court, returnable June 19.

The amended plan, with recommendations by the Town and County Planning Boards, must be available before the expected July 10 public hearing can be held.

Head Start Grants Noted

MIDDLETOWN

Congressman John G. Dow today announced two grants under the Head Start Program.

The Sullivan County Community Action Agency will receive federal aid in the amount of $19,995. The agency is running an all day Head Start program for 75 children from low-income families.

Representative Dow also announced a grant to the Regional Economic Community Action Program, of Middletown. The $13,902 grant will fund a seven-week summer program for 51 children.

Seek Volunteer Assistance On Poughkeepsie Landmark

POUGHKEEPSIE

The Dutchess County Landmarks Association has asked for volunteer effort in rehabilitation of 190 Union Street, Poughkeepsie.

In an effort to demonstrate its concern that historically significant areas a structures continue as an active part of the community, Landmarks has purchased and is rehabilitating a two-family house at 190 Union Street to be sold at no profit to an owner occupant.

As the basic construction work is finished, Landmarks volunteers intend to refinish floors, paint the interior, and landscape the grounds. It was suggested that this is an excellent chance for older teenagers to become constructively involved in the revitalization of Poughkeepsie.

The Association, a non-profit membership corporation, was formed for the purpose of increasing public awareness of the rich architectural past and incorporating this physical heritage into the ongoing life of the county.

Other endeavors include an inventory program, compiling and maintaining an up-to-date list with photos of structures and areas of historic, architectural, and aesthetic value.

Walking tours have been sponsored in Rhinebeck and Fishkill to bring these areas to public attention.

Plaques have been awarded to permanently recognize significant efforts in preservation, restoration, and adaptive use of landmark structures.

Committees are working with local groups for historic district zoning in several areas of the county. Historic district zoning is now a fact in the Garfield Place area of Poughkeepsie.

Along with the Fishkill Historical Society, Landmarks sponsored an archeological dig on the site of the revolutionary war encampment. The findings were judged to be of such merit that the dig will be expanded this summer.

The City of Poughkeepsie program is complex. It is Landmarks state belief that the architecture of the past can enrich the urban scene greatly by contributing warmth and visual roots as well as needed housing.

With this in mind, Landmarks submitted two areas and six structures to the New York State Historical Trust and the National Register of Historic Places.

The Union Street area, the Mill Street area, the Old City Hall, the Vassar Institute, the Vassar Home for Aged Men, the Second Baptist Church, and the Church of the Holy Comforter have been signed on the National Register and Landmarks has been praised for its submissions and documentation.

For information about volunteering for this project interested persons may call the Volunteer Service Bureau of the Dtuchess County Committee for Economic Opportunity, 469 Main Street, Poughkeepsie at 452-5600.

D.A. in Dutchess Reviews New Laws

POUGHKEEPSIE

Dutchess County District Attorney Albert M. Rosenblatt said today that the 1972 legislatirve session produced two changes of significance in criminal law as it will affect this county.

He pointed to the change in the rape law as being of prime importance. It was sponsored by the New York State District Attorneys' Association and "begins to place the testimony of women on a parity with that of men," he said.

Rosenblatt noted that the rape law had been an "extremely backward and archaic concept that has unfairly placed the testimony of women, in rape cases, on a second class basis."

The State District Attorneys' Association applauded, at the annual summer conference just completed, the passage of the new bill covering the crime of rape.

Michael Whiteman, chief counsel to the governor, was one of the guest speakers at the recent meeting and he discussed the bill, just signed by Rockefeller, that relaxes the standards of proof in a way that now parallels proof in other cases.

The rape standard was unique in that a rapist could not be convicted upon the testimony of a woman unless supported by other proof. The new standard provides that a jury verdict based upon identification by the victim will be sufficient, provided that the use of force is supported by additional proof.

The second area of great importantce cited by Rosenblatt was the passage of the 90-180 day rule.

This bill was also supported by the DA Attorneys' Association and was adopted by the governor in preference to the rule promulgated by the Judicial Conference.

Under the speedy trial rule as signed there is still an immense burden placed on the prosecutors' offices to move cases within the allotted time period, but exceptions were written into the rule allowing what Rosenblatt called a "more realistic" application.

As the rule now stands a person in jail must be tried or released from jail within 90 days. If he is not tried within 180 days the charges must be dismissed and cannot be revived. But an important exception is the exclusion of those time periods for which defense delays were accountable.

Rosenblatt pointed to a third significant piece of legislation as one which he had authored in connection with conspiracies to sell large quantities of narcotics.

Under pre-existing law it was a felonious conspiracy to agree to commit murder and kidnaping. Under the new law, the sale of more than a pound of heroin would be included for conspiracy purposes, in the same category as murder or kidnaping.

"Regrettably, the broad court reform program was not passed and the state will not, for the moment, assume the exepnse of the court structure," he stated.

"It is my understanding that the governor is particularly concerned with the future of court reform and that future legislatures will give greater attention to it," he forecasts.

Reaction to Court Ruling...Predictable

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As could be expected, ballplayers lined up on one side of the field and management on the other today following the refusal of the U.S. Supreme Court to act against baseball's antitrust exemption and the controversial reserve clause.

There was also indication that further court action may come from the players.

Perhaps the strongest reaction came from St. Louis catcher Ted Simmons, who refused to sign his contract with the Cardinals earlier this year. Simmons was obliged to play anyway when Cardinal management invoked the renewal clause.

After hearing of the Supreme Court's decision on Monday, Simmons said in St. Louis that if he was forced to play again under the same clause he would seek support of the Major League Players' Association and perhaps initiate suit to test the legality of the contract provision.

"I want to sign my contract," said Simmons, who was offered $25,000 by the Cardinals but wanted $30,000. "Being a free agent is not my intention right now. If my contract is renewed again, I'd have reason to take action."

By a 5-3 vote, the Supreme Court ruled Monday that professional baseball is immune from antitrust law, although conceding that the sport is now a "big business" engaged in interstate commerce.

In the majority opinion delivered by Justice Harry A. Blackmun, the Court said the anti-trust exemption "rests on a recognition and an acceptance of baseball's unique characteristics and needs."

TED SIMMONS

This latest challenge of baseball's protective reserve clause had been brought by Curt Flood, who refused to report to the Philadelphia Phillies after being traded in 1970 by the Cardinals.

Flood brought a damage suit against the two major leagues on grounds of violating both federal and state antitrust laws, charging specifically that the reserve clause amounted to slavery.

The baseball establishment, which was threatened by the possibility of overhauling its operations in dealing with players, was overjoyed at the decision.

"The determination of the Supreme Court is helpful to all of us in professional sports in that the court has clearly restated its views on a number of important sports matters," said Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

"I think the decision is constructive in its recognition that baseball has developed its present structure in reliance on past court decisions. The decision opens the way for renewed collective bargaining on the reserve system after the 1972 season. I am confident that the players and the clubs are in the best position to determine for themselves what the form of the reserve system should be and that they will both take a most responsible view of their respective obligations to the public and to the game.

"Any desirable changes should be the product of mutual agreement so that there will be assurance that all concerned are prepared to live with and support the result."

BOWIE KUHN

American league president Joe Cronin said he was "very pleased" with the ruling.

"I haven't had a chance to review the full opinion, but in my 47 years of experience in professional baseball, I never felt the terms of the uniform players' contract or the assignment of my contract detracted from my human dignity," said Cronin, a Hall of Fame shortstop.

"The reserve clause preserves the absolute integrity of the game, equalizes the competition and gives each club the opportunity to promote its very expensive player development program."

Calvin Griffith, owner of the Minnesota Twins, and Bob Short, owner of the Texas Rangers, also expressed their satisfaction.

"Of course we're delighted with the verdict," said Griffith, and Short said he was "overjoyed for baseball, not that Flood lost."

Flood played for Short when his franchise still was in Washington before suddenly quitting the game.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players' Association, called upon Congress to step into the matter.

"Like all other pro sports under the safeguard of the antitrust laws, the present state of the law is an "aberration" that should be corrected by the Congress," Miller said. "We feel confident that the Congress will accept the court's clear indication to act in this matter and we will be cooperating fully with the Congress to achieve that result."

Pirates Blast... Houston Zeroes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Pirates blasted their way out of a rut Monday night, but the Houston Astros have found a groove they'd like to stay in.

The Pirates, shut out by San Diego 4-0 and 1-0 in their last two starts and scoreless for 23 innings, erupted for 16 hits—including home runs by Roberto Clemente, Gene Alley and Al Oliver—and pasted the Los Angeles Dodgers 13-3.

The Astros, meanwhile, got their second consecutive one-hit pitching performance when Larry Dierker limited New York to a lone single as Houston defeated the Mets 3-0 for the Astros' fifth straight victory.

As a result, Pittsburgh moved back into first place in the National League East by one-half game over the Mets, while the Astros pulled within a half-game of first-place Cincinnati in the NL West. The Reds were blanked by Montreal 2-0.

In the only other National League baseball action, the Chicago Cubs nipped San Francisco 7-6 in 11 innings. Philadelphia's game at Atlanta and San Diego's contest at St. Louis were rained out.

In the American League, Boston bombed Texas 12-0, California edged Baltimore 4-3 and Oakland beat Detroit 7-3. Cleveland's game at Minnesota was rained out, while the New York Yankees, Milwaukee, Kansas City and Chicago White Sox were not scheduled.

Oliver and Clemente drove in three runs apiece for the Pirates, whose .284 team batting average is tops in the majors. The three RBI moved Clemente into first place on the all-time Pirate list with 1,275, two more than Hall of Famer Pie Traynor.

Pittsburgh ended its scoreless streak with two runs in the first inning off Don Stutton, 8-2—with both losses coming at the hands of the Pirates. The Bucs added three more runs in the fifth, one in the sixth, three in the seventh and four in the eighth.

"It really didn't matter who was pitching out there tonight," declared Oliver. "This team is loaded with talent, confidence and pride, and it just wanted to show the people something."

Meanwhile, at the Astrodome, Dierker showed the Houston fans something, too, duplicating Jerry Reuss' one-hit effort against the Phillies Sunday. It was only the eighth time back-to-back one-hitters have been pitched.

The lone safety off Dierker, 6-4, was a third inning single by Duffy Dyer.

Houston scored twice in the seventh on run-scoring singles by Lee May and Tommy Helms, then added another run in the ninth on another RBI single by May.

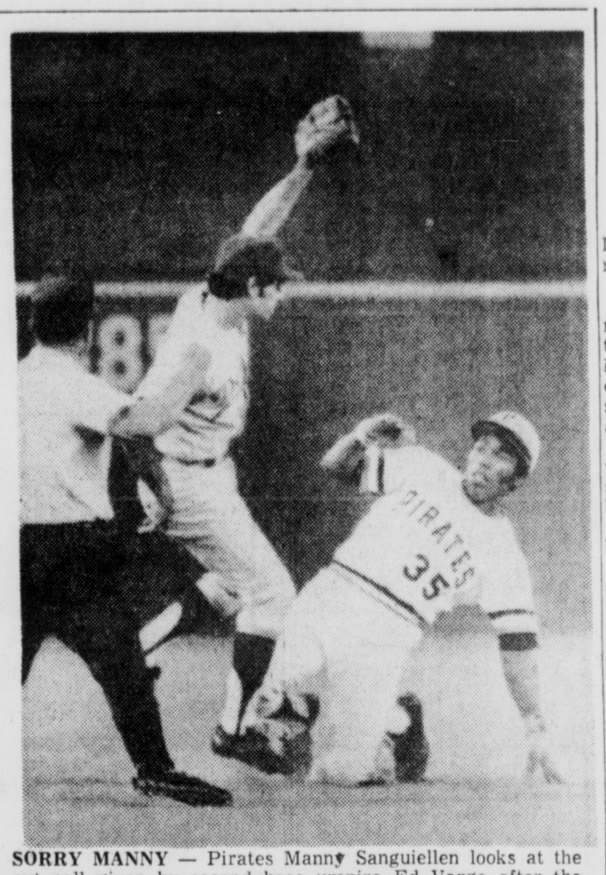

Montreal's Bill Stoneman shut out the Cincnnnati Reds on four singles, while Tim Foli and Ron Woods drove in the Expos' runs with sacrifice flies.

The Cubs posted their sixth straight victory and moved within 2½ games of the lead in the NL East when Glenn Beckert doubled home Don Kissinger in the 11th inning. Jim Hickman and Ron Santo had two-run homers for the Cubs while Garry Maddox hit a three-run blast for the Giants.

Reggie Smith clouted two home runs and drove in five runs and Sonny Siebert hurled a three-hitter as Boston whipped Texas. Siebert, 7-3, had a no-hitter until Ted Kubiak hit a pinch-double leading off the sixth inning. Rico Petrocelli and Danny Cater also homered for Boston.

The Angels overtook the Orioles with three runs in the sixth inning on a two-run triple by Lee Stanton and an RBI single by Leo Cardenas. Bobby Grich hit a two-run homer for Baltimore while Ken McMullen homered for California.

Mike Epstein hit a pair of home runs, then drew a walk with the bases loaded in the eighth inning to force across the tie-breaking run for Oakland. Norm Cash hit his 15th homer of the season for the Tigers.

SORRY MANNY — Pirates Manny Sanguiellen looks at the out call given by second base umpire Ed Vargo after the tag by Dodgers' Bob Valentine in the first inning of Monday's game. Manny had singled on the play to score Willie Stargell and tried to move to second after a throw to third failed to get Al Oliver. (UPI)

DiMag Approves

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Joe DMaggio makes a good witness, maybe the perfect one.

He has no axe to grind.

He lived under the present reserve clause 16 years with the New York Yankees and had his salary battles with the front office the same as anybody else so he doesn't figure to be against the players.

He has no official connection with baseball now and you don't see any of the owners knocking his door down to employ him so you can't put him away as any kind of "owners' man" either.

Yet, Joe DiMaggio feels the Supreme Court made the right call.

"I'm happy the Court ruled in favor of baseball," he says. "Why? Simply because I wouldn't care to see any one club corral all or most of the playing talent. I don't think that would be right, and I'm sure in the long run it would have to hurt baseball.

"You take what's happening in Japan now. I'm talking about the Tokyo Giants. They win every year. It's pretty simple. They've got the money; they get all the talent. I like our rules, the draft and all that, much better."

In essense, Joe DiMaggio is right.

That happens to be the way I feel, anyway.

Had the Supreme Court gone the other way and upheld Curt Flood's challenge of the reserve clause, I don't necessarily think complete chaos would have followed, but I'm reasonably sure there would have been some disorder, and if there is one thing baseball doesn't need right now it's any more disorder.

I have never heard a single player ever say he felt the reserve clause should be eliminated completely. Most say they feel it should be revised some way.

But in what way? Ah, there's the rub!

Justice Harry A. Blackmun, who wrote the opinion upholding the controversial clause, went back and noted the Supreme Court had granted baseball antitrust exemption twice before during the past 50 years.

Blackmun made a special point of saying this exemption "rests on a recognition and an acceptance of baseball's unique characteristics and needs." He also said the Court was reluctant to overturn those earlier decisions "when Congress, by its positive inaction, has allowed those decisions to stand for so long and, far beyond mere inference and implication, has clearly evinced a desire not to disapprove them legislatively."

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger agreed with Blackmun's ruling in an opinion of his own but said he had "grave reservations." He feels it is time Congress acts "to solve this problem."

Naturally, Marvin Miller, the executive director of the Major League Players' Association, jumped on that and said he felt "confident that the Congress will accept the Court's clear indication to act in this matter . . ."

For one thing, the Court cannot instruct Congress to act, it can merely suggest, and there certainly is no guarantee Congress ever will.

The only one who ever really keeps urging it to is Marvin Miller. For its part, the general public seems satisfied with the way things are in baseball or simply doesn't care.

Which leaves only baseball's hierarchy headed by Bowie Kuhn, the commssioner of the game.

Bowie Kuhn, my friends, is a very relieved customer today. So are a number of other baseball people who kept worrying the Supreme Court would go the other way.

I'm pleased it didn't because if I want to see Hank Aaron, Johnny Bench, Roberto Clemente, Billy Williams, Tom Seaver, Bob Gibson, Joe Torre, Pete Rose, Willie Mays, Sam McDowell and Ferguson Jenkins all on the same team I'll go to the All-Star Game.

Which brings me back to Joe DiMaggio.

"Under the present set-up", he says, "I still think a ballplayer can make a pretty decent living out there, reserve clause and all."

Of course he can. So can the owners, and I mean ALL of them, even those who cry. They should quit crying. So should the players.

I'm with Joe DiMaggio. I'm glad the Court ruled the way it did.

Cosell Pushing For Commission

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sports commentator Howard Cosell rained verbal blows on some of his favorite atheltic villains Monday and urged Congress to create a commission to regulate what he said are the excesses of professional sports.

"There is a curious legend that every athlete is a shining manhood, that every contest is inherently pure and that every owner a dedicated and selfless man concerned only with the good of the sport," said Cosell, a reporter and commentator for the ABC network.

And he told a Senate subcommittee sports writers have added to the legend and have helped make professional sports "a privileged sanctuary from life—a loooking glass world—a Camelot."

It's no Camelot, said Cosell, as he proceeded to complain about sports monopolies, football games which only a privileged few can attend, TV blackouts of major local games and switches of baseball and football franchises motivated only by profit.

He put much of the blame on the owners and declared, "I do not buy their plea that they should be allowed to clean their own houses.

"They've evidenced a massive lack of desire to do so in all the years I've been on the sports scene."

He generally supported creating a national sports commission and told Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., the subcommittee chairman, that it should have the power to suspend or cancel team franchises for serious violations of regulations.

Another witness, Jack Dolph, commissioner of the American Basketball Association, testified the current bidding war is destroying professional basketball and disrupting college basketball.

LITTLE LEAGUE POOL — The game was called because of wet grounds Monday at the Elsmsford, N. Y., Little League baseball field. Ali Workout Attracts 6,000

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) —Muhammad Ali may quit the ring and go into acting in two years. He won't need any acting lessons—he's a master thespian already.

He proved that Monday when he worked out before a crowd estimated at 6,000 in the Forum. There was no admission charge.

The workout was designed to drum up interest in Ali's 12-round bout against Jerry Quarry at Las Vegas, Nev., next Tuesday.

Acting the clown in between a few serious moments, Ali boxed with two sparring mates—heavyweight Charles James and light heavyweight Eddie "Boss Man" Jones.

Sometimes the ex-champ would loll on the ropes and beckon his foe to come at him. The crowd loved it.

At one point Ali leaped out of the ring after a heckler. Manager-trainer Angelo Dundee made a great show restraining him.

At another time, Ali made believe he spied heavyweight champion Joe Frazier in the audience and cried, "Don't harm him, folks. Stand up, Joe Frazier."

A woman stood up and Ali said, "I made a mistake. I'm sorry, lady. You're not Joe Frazier."

The crowd rocked and roared, whistled and stomped in delight.

At a news conference after the workout, Ali was asked how long he would continue to fight and he said:

"I don't get hurt. I could probably fight 10 more years. I hope to get out and be well invested in two more years. Then I'd take it easy ... enjoy my family. I might go into acting."

Actor Charlton Heston was on hand and Ali brought nim into the ring to introduce him.

"This is my friend, Charleston Heston," said Ali, muffing the first name. "Don't he look good? There's no weight on him. He's almost as pretty as I am. This is my idol."

Ali refused to make any predictions about the outcome of the Quarry fight. He beat Quarry in three rounds —on an eye cut-Oct. 26, 1970 in Atlanta. That was the first fight for Ali after a three-and-a-half year layoff, the result of his resistance to selective service.

"I just predict it will be a tough fight," he said. "He's next best to Joe Frazier. Quarry is a good counter-puncher, he hits hard, he's determined, he's good. Quarry ain't no pushover."

In a companion bout at the Las Vegas Convention Center, Quarry's brother Mike, fights light heavyweight champion Bob Foster in a 15-round title bout.

Ali is guaranteed $500,000 against 35 per cent of the live gate and television rights. Jerry Quarry gets $175,000 and brother Mike $35,000. Foster is to receive $80,000. Ringside seats go for $100.

Seeks Home TV for Ali-Frazier

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said today he wants congressional action to assure the next Joe Frazier-Muhammed Ali fight is shown free on home television.

Closed-circuit television tickets to the fight could average $25, Aspin said.

Aspin called for speedy House action on a bill he has sponsored with 33 other congressmen which would ban the fight, and other major sports events, from closed-circuit television if a broadcast network is interested in showing the event.

"There is still time for Congress to act so that the average sports fan doesn't get completely shut out of the next Ali-Frazier fight," Aspin said in a prepared House speech.

However, Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., chairman of the House Commerce subcommittee on communications, said he doubted Congress could enact the legislation and said no hearings were planned on the bill this year.

"I don't think we have jurisdiction over a private entrepreneur putting up private money for private profit," MacDonald said.

"You can't stop a guy from using closed circuit," added Macdonald who said "this is an entrepreneur putting up his own money and taking a hell of a risk ... I don't think it's any of Congress' business.

"The networks can't touch it, won't touch it at the prices they would have to pay. Thus it is closed circuit or nothing."

But MacDonald said he agreed with Aspin that the price of tickets to a rematch of the Muhammed Ali-Joe Frazier heavyweight championship boxing bout "will be high because its the only way in the world the promoter will get his money back."

According to Aspin, Ali has asked for $6 million and Frazier $3.5 million for the fight while each received $2.5 million for the first fight in which Ali was beaten by Frazier.

"I believe we should be more concerned about keeping professional sports open to 120 million American sports fans than allowing a handful of already wealthy promoters to reap windfall profits," said Aspin.

Benjamin Sets Record

MIDDLETOWN — Harry Benjamin set the all-time racing record at Orange County Fair Speedway Saturday night as he turned the 5-8 mile oval with a blistering mark of 23.4 seconds for one lap while running a super sprint for United Racing Club.

Benjamin erased Bobbie Allen's mark of 23.6 established in July, 1968. As he won the heat race, he also set the all-time mark for ten laps with a time of 4:04, wiping out Bill Roynan's time of 4:05.6, also set in July, 1968.

Benjamin came right back to win the URC feature, but it was stock car driver Buzzy Reutimann who received the applause as he took second in the 20 lap run.

Carl Van Horn won the modified feature, his third of the year, driving the George Vanderwall No. 28 out of North Haledon, N.J. He took the lead on the 17th lap after leader Billy Deskovich developed Mechanical troubles and had to drop out.

Another North Haledon driver, Jerry Wilson, took the Limited Sportsmen feature with ease, driving the Charlie Bark No. 36. Wilson, the 1971 champion, took over on the 7th lap and ran away with it finishing a full straightaway ahead of second place Ray Tavalaro.

The Late Model feature was postponed until this week.

Indianapolis Clowns Play Braves Saturday

KINGSTON — Weather permitting, the Kingston Braves resume their Hudson Valley Rookie League schedule against the Beacon Astros Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at Dietz Stadium.

Following the Astros, the famed Indianapolis Clowns come into town for a Saturday night exhibition with the Brves at 8 p.m.

The Clowns, one of the all-time great touring independent teams, are now in their 43rd season under Manager Ed Hamman. It is the team that sent Hank Aaron to the major leagues and many other stars into the Negro American and Negro National Leagues and minor league ball.

Miss Nancy Miller, the lady umpire, will again accompany the Clowns and umpire the game. She proved to be a big hit with Dietz Stadium fans in last year's game. "Midget" Bill Baughn, the smallest player in independent baseball, also is scheduled to appear.

The Clowns are an ideal team for the family to watch and, given good weather, General Manager Fred Davi anticipates a large turnout.

The Braves go into Wednesday's game with a 3-1 record, trailing the Northern Division Poughkeepsie Lasers (4-0) by a game. Middletown Explorers lead the Southern Division with a 3-1 record.

The standings:

In Babe Ruth League

Lions Edge Vols

KINGSTON — Earl Mitchell's single drove in Al Freer, who had tripled, to boost Hurley's Lions to a 5-4 Babe Ruth League win over the Vols Monday. The game was stopped after six innings because of darkness.

Mitchell's hit made the count 5-2 in favor of Hurley. The Vols then threatened in the bottom of the sixth, scoring two runs and loading the sacks with one out. But Hurley pitcher Freer fanned Dan Brown, and Dave Kronick lined one back to the box which Freer managed to knock down and get to first in time.

Ricky Meiers, Freer, and Mitchell each had two hits for Hurley, which moved into fourth place in the American League. Freer was the winning pitcher.

Kronick took the loss for the National League's fifth place club.

Schaeffer No-Hitter

STONE RIDGE — Jay Schaeffer stopped Fanns with a no-hitter over five innings in a darkness-abbreviated Rondout Valley Babe Ruth tilt and chased home three runs with his bat as Davenport's rung up a convincing 13-2 victory.

Jack Maybee led the nine-hit Davenports attack with a pair of triples and two RBI's, and Jay Schaeffer, Wayne Schaeffer and Gary Sidoian belted doubles.

Schaeffer fanned eight batters over the span while walking two. Three Fann hurlers gifted the winners with eight walks with middle man William Bell taking the loss.

All-America Tom Luken Sees It as a Fun Contest

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Tom Luken, an All-American lineman from Purdue, came to town for the fun of it.

"That's the only way to look at one of these All-Star games, especially during the off season," said the 237-pound, 6-3 guard who will play for Alabama Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant's East squad in the 12th annual Coaches All-America game Saturday night.

"We just try to pick up the basics —much of the stuff we are not as sharp on now because we are out of practice," Luken said. "It's hard to get the little things down in the short time we have working together."

Luken was the third round draft choice of the Philadelphia Eagles, and he hopes his week's work in Lubbock plus his showing in the game itself will help his chances when he arrives at rookie camp.

"It's an honor just to be picked to play in a game like this. And, when you realize the guys who made the football news all last year will be all around you, it sort of makes you feel small."

But Luken says football has been an important part of his life and he feels he owes something to the game —and to the Coaches Association which sponsors Saturday's contest.

"Sometimes when I think about it I feel that maybe the fans are a little disappointed in this type of a game, because we just can't do that much to get ready for it in so little time. But if my participation will help collegiate football in any form, I'm more than happy to do what I can."

It will be Luken's job to open up the line for quarterbacks Paul Miller of North Carolina and Joe Gilliam of Tennessee State. Also in the East backfield for Bryant will be Johnny Musso of the Crimson Tide, Curt Watson of Tennessee and Lewis Jolley of North Carolina.

"I didn't know a whole lot about our team until we arrived in Lubbock," Luken said. "But with fellows like these on the squads, it doesn't take long to make lasting acquaintances."

Slow-Pitch July 15-16

WAPPINGERS FALLS — The United States Slo-Pitch Softball Association Hudson Valley District Tournament will be held here on July 15 and 16 and succeeding weekends if necessary.

The district includes Long Island, parts of Connecticut and New Jersey, as well as Southeastern New York State.

Entry fee for the single elimination event is $40 ($30 tournament entry fee plus a $10 USSSA registration fee). Checks or money orders must be mailed to tournament Director Bill Hald, 16 Memory Lane, Poughkeepsie, no later than July 6 and should be made payable to the Wappingers Merchants Softball League.

First, second, third, and fourth place teams will be eligible to compete in either the USSSA Class A Eastern U.S. Championship Tournament in Petersburg, Va., or the Class B World Tournament in Baltimore, Md. The Class A winner qualifies to meet the Western Champion in the best four of seven World Series next spring.

Sessions Is Signed By Foyt

KINGSTON — Sam Sessions, the veteran race car driver who has piloted the Amerling special of Kingston to the lead in the United States Auto Club Sprint Car point derby, has signed a contract to drive one of the car's in A. J. Foyt's stable.

Sessions, who finished fourth in the Indianapolis 500 last month, will drive Foyt's No. 84 Coyote Ford that George Snider brought in 11th at Indianapolis. He will begin with the Pocono 500 at Pocono, Pa., July 2.

Foyt said he tried to get Sessions to drive at Indianapolis, but he was already committed. Foyt was injured May 22 at DuQuoin, Ill., and will be out of action until the California 500 on Labor Day.

Foyt, who announced the hiring of Sessions from a wheel chair, said he would be with the pit crew in the Pocono race.

Sessions, 37, of Nashville, Mich., drives for Mauri Amerling of Kingston, the local Volkswagen dealer, in the weekly sprint car events.

Glynn-Minasian 2-Ball Leaders

KINGSTON — Tom Glynn and Mrs. Edward Minasian teamed for a net 62 to win first place in the Mixed Two-Ball Foursome tournament at The Twaalfskill Club. They had low gross of 84 to go with 22 handicap to edge three other teams by a stroke.

Sharing a three-way tie for second place with net 63s were the teams of: Bud Potter-Mrs. Basil Moschowsky, 90-27; Dr. William Pugliese-Mrs. Bud Potter, 92-29; and Jack McGary-Mrs. Jack Edwards, 90-27.

Ted Feeney and Mrs. Michael Groppuso posted 85-21-64. Dr. Joseph Erena and Mrs. N. Levan Haver had 88-21-67, William Merrill and Mrs. David Hoffman, 93-25-68.

Harry Thayer and Mrs. Pat Mac Fadden posted 101-29-72 to tie with Dennis Pitcock and Mrs. William Pugliese, who carded 98-26-72.

Seagram's 7 Crown. It's America's whiskey.

And when America goes golfing, chances are 7 Crown is waiting at the nineteenth hole.

Because in America more people drink and enjoy 7 Crown than the leading Scotch and Canadian combined. And they do it for a very good reason: the taste. It's uniquely and consistently smooth.

Whatever you do this summer, take 7 Crown along, too. It's America's whiskey. And it should be yours.

Taste the best of America. Say Seagram's and Be Sure.

In Makeup of Ulster County Athletic League

Addition of Fallsburg Means Changes

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON — With the acceptance of Fallsburg to the Ulster County Athletic League by a vote of members last Friday comes a new school to area scholastic competition and some new problems for UCAL officials.

"Basically, we had the vote on whether to accept the school or not," said league president John E. Stefano, "now we have to align."

The Fallsburg application was submitted prior to a recommendation by Section IX that the school be considered by the Ulster County loop, while Monticello High should seek affiliation with a Sullivan County league.

Both Fallsburg and Monticello, along with present UCAL members Ellenville and Liberty, are former members of the DUSO Village League, a vestige of the Dutchess-Ulster Sullivan-Orange Scholastic League.

Fallsburgh won the 75 per cent vote of approval necessary for UCAL admittance.

"We're very happy with he results," said Fallsburg athletic director Roland Allen. "It's a very well run, well balanced organization."

Official participation is slated to begin in the 1973-74 sesson. By that time the present North-South setup will have stood some changes.

"Next year we'll have to decide on realignment," said Stefano.

In many ways the new addition can ease some of the logistical problems the UCAL has suffered by providing a geographically closer opponent to the southwestern Schools. But of the sports now pursued at Fallsburg, (cross-country, soccer, basketball, baseball, tennis and golf,) football is not among them. Should that change, the UCAL would have to be reshuffled once more.

"We haven't discussed it," said Allen of the possibility of adding the sport, and at this point the school's small size makes it seem prohibitive.

Divisions will now have six teams each, and a decision on interdivisional play, particularly in spring sports, will have to be reached. Unfavorable weather conditions, a springtime rule in Ulster County, play havoc with heavy schedules.

Fallsburg is no stranger to many of the UCAL members. A longtime foe of Ellenville and Liberty, they have also competed periodically with New Paltz, Rondout, Onteora and Marlboro.

Broccos Pace Village Cobbler

SAUGERTIES — Joe Brocco spun a five-hitter as Village Cobbler posted a 6-5 Saugerties Blue Division softball win over Mr. T's Pizza.

In the White Division, Village Barn upended Friendly Inn, 8-7, in eight innings.

Mike Brocco aided his brother's cause with two hits in the Village Cobbler triumph. Joe Brocco and George Terpening also chipped in whith a pair of hits.

The win, the third in a row for the Cobblers, launched them into third place, one game behind the co-leaders. Rosner's Hooples and Boo's Tavern.

Village Barn survived the White Division's first extra-inning game of the season when an outfield error by Friendly Inn allowed the winning run to come home.

The losers outhit the Barn 16-8, but Friendly Inn committed six miscues, passed five men via walks, and gave three men free trips to first by hitting them with pitches.

Butch Myer, Rocky Rosario, and Joe Hinchey each had two hits for the Barn while Jack Lechner slammed three hits for Friendly Inn. Johnny Lechner added two hits.

The linescores:

Vince Dingman Fires ALL No-Hit Game

KINGSTON — Vince Dingman of Rondout National Bank faced only two batters over the minimum 18, as he pitched a no-hit, no-run 8-0 victory over Augustine Insurance in the American Little League. He hit one batter and remained the only undefeated pitcher in the league with a 4-0 record.

The winners collected only four hits off Joe Augustine who fanned 11. Vince Ferraro hit a double for the winners.

Don Biganda fired one-hit ball in pitching the Kingston American 9 and 10-year-old All Stars to a 15-1 rout of the Phoenicia All Stars. While Biganda was fanning 14 without a walk, the Kingston sluggers were scoring in five separate frames, including a 10-run fourth, to seal the victory.

The 9 and 10 year-old all star competition continues next week with the American League taking on the Kingston National League stars.

Mrs. Maurice Hinchey Is Chairman

Demo Dinner Set July 8

KINGSTON — The Ulster County Democratic Committee fund raising dinner will be held Saturday, July 8 at the Governor Clinton Hotel, with Mrs. Maurice Hinchey serving as chairman.

The affair will begin at 7 p.m. A smorgasbord and champagne will be served after which there will be music for dancing.

Arrangements and committees for the dinner will be announced shortly by Mrs. Hinchey. Tickets are available from any town chairman or city committeeman.

Mrs. Hinchey was born in New York City and moved to Saugerties in 1945. She is married to Maurice Hinchey who is the Democratic-Liberal candidate for Assemblyman from the 101st Assembly District. He is also the Ulster County Democratic State Committeeman and town chairman of the Town of Saugerties. Mrs. Hinchey resides with her husband and two children, Maurice Scott 9, and Josef 4, at 68 Livingston Street, Saugerties. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Josef Laumer of Saugerties.

She is a member of the Chaill School PTA and serves as a Den Leader for Cub Scout Troop No. 32. Mrs. Hinchey is a member of Atonement Lutheran Church. She is past Chairman of Election Studies in the Saugerties League of Women Voters. Mrs. Hinchey is also a member of the Ulster County Democratic Women's Club and Town of Saugerties Democratic Club. She was active in John Dyson's campaign for Congress in 1968 and served as Town of Saugerties Coordinator for David Lenefsky in 1970 when he ran for State Senator. She has also been active in many local and gubnatorial campaigns.

Mrs. Hinchey also served on the Saugerties Narcotics Council and has been an active canvasser for both the Cancer and Heart Funds.

From Leonardo da Vinci self-portrait, Scala, Royal Library, Turin.
IBM presents on television The National Gallery of Art's fascinating new documentary about Leonardo da Vinci—narrated by Sir John Gielgud.
There has never been another man like Leonardo—painter, scientist, inventor, sculptor, engineer, architect, geologist, anatomist, physicist, naturalist, mathematician, musician, philosopher.
Tonight, Sir John Gielgud will be your guide in a one-hour television program that delves into the mysteries of Leonardo—and probes the life, the art and the science of this man who taught the world a whole new way to see. The music, composed and conducted by George Kleinsinger, features a newly deciphered musical theme written by Leonardo more than 400 years ago.
"Leonardo: To Know How To See" was made possible by a grant from IBM to The National Gallery of Art. The program will be presented without commercial interruption. IBM

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING AN ORDINANCE IN RELATION TO THE PUBLIC STREETS IN THE CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y.

The Common Council of the City of Kingston, New York, does ordain and enact as follows:

SECTION 1. That Section 6 of Article 4 "15 MINUTE PARKING" is hereby amended by REPEALING the following:

#306 Sterling Street, easterly side, beginning at a point 100 feet from the northerly curb of Cedar Street and continuing in a northerly direction for a distance of 30 feet.

ADD 15 MINUTE PARKING

#460 on Broadway, westerly side, beginning at the intersection of West Strand and running South to the intersection of Ferry Street (in front of Freeman Office).

#461 on Broadway, westerly side, beginning at a point 95 feet from the northwest corner of West Strand Street at the intersection of Broadway and running in a northerly direction for a distance of 105 feet (in front of Downtown Post Office).

SECTION 2. That Section 3 of Article 5 "STOP SIGNS" is hereby amended by ADDING

241 On Main Street at the intersection of Emerson Street (4 way stop)

242 On Hunter Street at the intersection of Wurts Street both directions.

243 On Spring Street at the intersection of Wurts Street both directions.

SECTION 3. That Section 6c of Article 4 "ALTERNATE SIDE PARKING" repeal

On Van Buren Street

SECTION 4. That all other Ordinances or parts of Ordinances inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Submitted to the Mayor by the City Clerk this 9th day of June, 1972.

Louis F. De Cicco, City Clerk

Approved by the Mayor this 9th day of June, 1972.

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y.
(AMENDMENT NO. 50)

WHEREAS, The Common Council of the City of Kingston, New York, has made the following findings with respect to an application for amendment of the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Kingston, New York, adopted November 12, 1963, for the area identified as number 16-20 Ardsley Street in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, State of New York, for which premises application has been made for a change of zone from an R-2 to an R-6 for the purpose of erecting a six unit apartment house, to wit:

1. That the need for additional housing units in the City of Kingston is imperative.

2. That the relaxation of the zoning limitations in this area will not materially affect the comprehensive plan of the City of Kingston.

3. That appropriate arrangements for off street parking for the proposed residents of said premises has been outlined.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED, by the Common Council of the City of Kingston, New York, as follows:

SECTION 1. That the Ordinance known as City of Kingston Zoning Ordinance adopted November 12, 1963 be amended as follows:

That the said Ordinance and Zoning map which part thereof shall hereafter designate the parcel of land containing .085 acres as a C-1 Zone in place and stead of the present Zoning classification thereof, to wit: R-1; the premises so rezoned is described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the Northerly bounds of lands of the City of Kingston (Deitz Memorial Stadium) at a point South 27 degrees, 58' 30" East 54.50 feet from the Southwesterly corner of lands now or formerly of Allan L. Hanstein, Inc., and running:

(1) thence from said point of beginning along the Northerly bounds of the lands of the City of Kingston (Deitz Memorial Stadium) North 74 degrees, 22' 30" East 75.46 feet to a monument;

(2) thence along the Easterly bounds of lands of the City of Kingston (Deitz Memorial Stadium) South 21 degrees, 07' 30" East 76.75 feet to a point;

(3) thence North 71 degrees, 46' West 93.29 feet to a point;

(4) thence North 27 degrees, 58' 30" West 25.00 feet to the place of beginning;

Containing 3,689.34 square feet or 0.085 acre.

All bearings are referred to Grid North for the New York (East Zone) Plane Coordinate System.

SECTION 2. That this Ordinance shall take effect from and after its passage, approval and publication as provided by law.

Submitted to the Mayor by the City Clerk this 9th day of June, 1972.

Louis F. De Cicco, City Clerk

Approved by the Mayor this 9th day of June, 1972.

Francis R. Koenig, Mayor

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y.
(AMENDMENT NO. 51)

WHEREAS, the Common Council of the City of Kingston, New York, has made the following findings with respect to an application for amendment of the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Kingston, New York, adopted November 12, 1963, for the parcel hereinafter identified for which application has been made by Friendly Ice Cream Corp. for rezoning of such property from the present prescribed zone viz., R-1 to C-1 Zone, to wit:

1. That the said property formally owned by the City of Kingston is contiguous to Uptown Urban Renewal Development Parcel 19 which has limited development possibilities unless the same be sold and used jointly with the property sought to be rezoned.

2. The cooperative agreement between the City of Kingston and Kingston Urban Renewal Agency requires, in consideration for the Urban Renewal and development of the City of Kingston that all reasonable and appropriate modifications be made by the City to conform with and assist in such development.

3. That the area immediately surrounding the location of the affected parcel is commercial and industrial in type and nature.

4. That the comprehensive plan of the City of Kingston will not be adversely affected by the zoning change, but in fact, will be improved thereby.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED, by the Common Council of the City of Kingston, New York, as follows:

SECTION 1. That the Ordinance known as City of Kingston Zoning Ordinance adopted November 12, 1963 be amended as follows:

That the said Ordinance and Zoning map which is part thereof shall hereafter designate the parcel of land containing .085 acres as a C-1 Zone in place and stead of the present Zoning classification thereof, to wit: R-1; the premises so rezoned is described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the Northerly bounds of lands of the City of Kingston (Deitz Memorial Stadium) North 74 degrees, 22' 30" East 75.46 feet to a monument;

(2) thence along the Easterly bounds of lands of the City of Kingston (Deitz Memorial Stadium) South 21 degrees, 07' 30" East 76.75 feet to a point;

(3) thence North 71 degrees, 46' West 93.29 feet to a point;

(4) thence North 27 degrees, 58' 30" West 25.00 feet to the place of beginning;

Containing 3,689.34 square feet or 0.085 acre.

All bearings are referred to Grid North for the New York (East Zone) Plane Coordinate System.

SECTION 2. That this Ordinance shall take effect from and after its passage, approval and publication as provided by law.

SHERIFF'S SALE

By virtue of an execution issued out of Supreme Court, Kingston, New York, County of Ulster, I, the undersigned, Sheriff of Ulster County, have seized all the right, title and interest which the defendants, H. C. Lew, Inc., and Patentee Construction, Inc., had on the 2nd day of May, 1972, or subsequent thereto, of, in and to the following described premises which I shall offer for sale at public auction as the law directs, at the Ulster County Court House in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, New York, on the 20th day of July, 1972, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, to wit:

ALL THAT CERTAIN LOT, PIECE AND PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of New Paltz, Ulster County, New York, whereon Moses Elting, deceased, formerly lived, it being the eastern half of No. 10 of the Patent of New Paltz first tier, south division, bounded east by the lane between the first and second tier of lots; south by lands of Nathan L. DuBois and Moses P. LeFevre; west by lands of Bejamin Van Wagonen; north by lands of Elias Ean, James Ean and Peter Ean.

CONTAINING ninety (90) acres.

BEING the first described lot in a certain deed made by Michael Boland to Peter Boland, dated September 1, 1908 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 414 of Deeds at Page 58.

BEING also described in a certain deed made by Peter Boland to the grantor dated December 19, 1929 and recorded in Liber of Deeds 542 at Page 302, which conveyance conveyed to the said Margaret Boland the aforesaid property with other lands.

The above premises are more particularly bounded and described as follows: BEGINNING at a point on the west side of th Putt Corner's Road in the northeast corner of lands of Cora Williams; thence running westerly along lands of said Williams and John R. W. Deyo on a course North 50° East 9' West 53.71 chains to a corner in a fence; thence running northerly along lands formerly of B. Van Wagonen on a course of North 35° 43' East 17.05 chains to a corner in a fence; thence running easterly along the south bounds of lands of Wayne Wiseman and A. Herky on a course of South 50° 54' East 51.33 chains to the west side of said Putt Corner's Road; thence running southerly along the west side of said Putt Corner's Road on a course South 28° West 17.57 chains to the point or place of beginning. CONTAINING ninety (90) acres as surveyed by D. H. Merritt.

BEING the same premises described in a deed from Michael W. Welch to H. C. Lew, Inc. by deed dated May 3, 1968 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on May 13, 1968 in Book of Deeds 1211 at Page 1155.

EXCEPTING AND RESERVING therefrom all of the property hereto sold and conveyed and for which deeds are on file and duly recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office.

ALSO EXCEPTING AND RESERVING Lots 5A and 14, set forth on Map No. 2483 filed in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on February 13, 1969.

EXCEPTING, RESERVING AND SUBJECT TO grants, conveyances, and agreements of public record.

NOTICE OF UNREDEEMED LANDS SOLD FOR TAXES

Treasurer's Office, } ss:
County of Ulster }

Pursuant to the provisions of the Real Property Tax Law of the State of New York, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that unless lands hereafter scheduled and described, which were sold for arrearages of taxes levied in the year 1969 for 1970, and Kingston Consolidated School District taxes for the year 1970-71 levied on real property outside the boundaries of the City, shall be redeemed on or before the 24th day of September, 1972, by the payment to the County Treasurer of Ulster County of the amount for which each parcel was sold, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum from the date of such sale to the date of payment, and all taxes subsequently paid on such lands, together with the cost or advertising, the lands so sold and remaining unredeemed on the 24th day of September, 1972, will be conveyed to the respective purchasers thereof.

The amount necessary to redeem such lands so sold as above calculated to the last day in which such redemption can be made is set opposite the description of each parcel. (The amount due for all taxes subsequently paid by the purchaser thereof may be obtained from the office of the County Treasurer of Ulster County.)

Dated at Kingston, New York, this 5th day of June, 1972.

LEGAL NOTICE

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y.
(AMENDMENT NO. 52)

WHEREAS, the Common Council of the City of Kingston, New York, has made the following findings with respect to an application for amendment of the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Kingston, New York, adopted November 12, 1963, in an area known as Uptown Urban Renewal Project NYR-121, disposition parcel 20-a from its present zoning designation of C-2 to a new zoning designation of R-5, to wit:

1. That the present zoning law does not make adequate provision for development of modern nursing homes.

2. That the City of Kingston has a cooperative agreement with the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency whereby it is intended that necessary modifications in the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Kingston be made to accommodate redevelopment of the City of Kingston.

3. That the comprehensive plan of the City of Kingston will not be adversely affected by the proposed zoning change.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED, by the Common Council of the City of Kingston, New York, as follows:

SECTION 1. That the Ordinance known as City of Kingston Zoning Ordinance, adopted November 12, 1963, be amended as follows:

That the said Ordinance and the Zoning Map which is part thereof shall hereafter designate the following described parcel of land an R-5 zone in place and stead of the present zoning classification thereof, namely, C-2:

All that piece or parcel of land situate lying and being in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, and identified on the Urban Renewal Map of said City under Uptown Urban Renewal Project Number NYR-121 as disposition parcel 20-a.

SECTION 2. That this Ordinance shall take effect from and after its passage, approval and publication as provided by law.

Submitted to the Mayor by the City Clerk this 9th day of June, 1972.

Louis F. De Cicco, City Clerk

Approved by the Mayor this 9th day of June, 1972.

Francis R. Koenig, Mayor

EMPLOYMENT

ATTENTION JOB APPLICANTS
The Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help Wanted ads from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than the legal minimum wage or fail to pay at least time and one-half for overtime hours. The minimum wage for employment covered by the FISA prior to the 1966 Amendments is $1.85 an hour with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. Jobs covered as a result of the 1966 Amendments require $1.80 an hour minimum with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. For specific information contact the Wage and Hour Office of the U. S. Department of Labor, 231 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. 10452, WYandotte 3-1235.
IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibits discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have a big chance to get a fresh new start to gain the things you desire and so your key phrase today and tonight is "Produce results." You are wise to go after what you want in a highly resourceful and ingenious manner. Think about what your companions want and back them also for fullest benefits.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make sure you first take care of any association matters wisely, cleverly, and then you can be off with those you like for pleasure, etc. Pay your bills on time. Avoid one who does not repsect you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Working out policy matters with associates is wise now, since you have committed yourself to a long-term partnership. Show mate you will do everything in your power to have greater happiness together. Show kindness.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Fine day for getting duties done in a most energetic and clever fashion. Impress others with your fine taste in clothing, etc. Do whatever will make you a more dynamic and intelligent person.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A fine day to get at the hobbies that most please you and to the fun places that relax you. The one you like the most is very responsive. Make this a happy day, p.m., through own efforts.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Making your home a more charming and comfortable place to be is wise now, as well as your duty. Get the facts you need also to start an uptrend in all of your affairs. The world can be your oyster if you apply yourself vigorously.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Show others you care about their welfare and get busy going errands, duties that are important and necessary. Use care and become very productive. Stop babying yourself if that is what you are doing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You need more money for the future so get into the new outlets that will give you the added income you want. You can cut down expenses very easily, so do that, too, and please your mate thereby.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are very magnetic today and can charm others into doing what you wish very easily and gain your finest aims. Making new contacts who can be helpful to you is wise. Pick them out carefully, though.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you closet yourself in your study, you can make better plans for the future that are important right now .Get the facts you'll need later from experts in your field of endeavor. Show that you have tact, intellect.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Know which friends you want to continue to have in your life in the future and cultivate them more now. Accept invitaitions to the social events that are extended to you. Show that you are a lively conversationalist.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Contact bigwigs you know and get the information and advice needed, so you can improve your position in life. State your aims clearly. Get busy with that civic work that is important, also PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mr. 20) Get all the information you need so that you can put some new outlet in which you are interested to work successfully. New information in own field of endeavor should be studied, also. Become truly successful.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people with much dynamism and charm who will have the determination and will to accomplish almost anything decided upon, so make sure your child has only the finest types of playmates around. Then the desires and energies will be directed in right channels. The field of research is especially fine here, as well as whatever has to do with government, the police department, etc.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

WITCHCRAFT? (Q.) Several months ago I met a boy I like. Last week he told me he practices witchcraft. I never expected him to say a thing like that. I cannot tell my father because he's a preacher.

The boy is really very nice. Should I stay with him?—Surprised in Florida.

(A.) Witchcraft is something of a fad right now. All who are interested in it are not serious witches or warlocks. Your boy friend may even be kidding you.

Ask him for more details about what he knows and does. Do not hesitate to ask your father's advice about this and other matters. He lives in the same world you live in.

TOUCH: (Q.) My boy friend is very handsome. All he has to do is smile at a girl and she likes him. He likes to touch girls. Me, too. He likes to put his arm around them, hold hands, or whatever. He's been this friendly with many of my friends.

I do not tell anybody about what he does to me. But I am afraid he will tell my brother, and my brother will tell my mother, and that she will break us up. Help!—13 in Ohio.

(A.) You are very foolish to believe you are anything special to this boy. You are just another girl from whom he gets what he wants when he asks for it.

Unless you stop him and yourself you are in danger of being in real trouble. Stop now.

Opening lead—♠ 6

By Oswald and James Jacoby

There is one time when a second hand high play is essential. This is when your high card is going to be useless unless played right then and there.

South has a perfect book no-trump opening and North an equally perfect book raise to game. Seventeen points opposite 11 should have a comfortable play for game, and against any lead but a spade South would be sure of nine tricks.

The spade lead is downright annoying. South wishes that his partner had become declarer because in that case the spade lead would not present any problem.

South is faced with a problem but not with much of a decision. If he plays second hand low East will simply play some intermediate spade and dummy's queen of spades will have been wasted.

It is up to South to play it right away and hope for the best.

He does and the sun shines, birds twitter, and South goes about the business of knocking out the ace of diamonds and making at least one overtrick.

Just to show one of the complications of bridge: Give South the 10 of spades instead of the five and he should play second hand low since that play would insure getting a lot of value out of the queen.

People Puzzle...A Grab Bag

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Perpetual People Puzzle," ABC's Monday night special, was a grab-bag of entertainment—some songs, a dance number, a little satire, some comedy monologues, a sportscaster trying to be a comedian at his own expense, and right in the middle of all the action, a very moving dramatic vignette.

The hour program had all the earmarks of a pilot for a series. In structure, it was a cross between Public Broadcasting's "Great American Dream Machine" and NBC's "Laugh-In."

Singer-dancer Gwen Verdon opened the show with "Chicago" sung and danced in an airline terminal at Kennedy Airport in New York as some passengers stared wide-eyed. Miss Verdon and her fellow dancers wound up riding slowly around the big metal wheel from which passengers grab their luggage.

There was Richie Haven and his musical group with a couple of sad songs, and Jack Cassidy camping through a broad satire on TV's situation comedies.

Cutting in from start to finish was ABC's man about sports, Howard Cosell, reporting on a "Commuter 500" race. This was three working people—a girl on a motorcycle, a man on a train and a man in a car—supposedly racing to get to the office first. Cosell's play-by-play and the race were supposed to be funny, and maybe they were for viewers who are Cosell fans.

And the drama: James Earl Jones played a freshly released ex-convict riding a bus back home and worrying about whether his wife wants him back. Three sympathetic fellow passengers bring him to the point of telling how, if she wants him back, there will be a yellow handkerchief tied to a tree near the bus stop.

It built nicely to a climax—a tree festooned with yellow banners.

A lot of the show didn't work at all, other portions seemed forced and self-conscious, but all through it were rewarding moments.

Best of all, it was an effort to do something in the variety form that has not been copied all over the place.

Dan Blocker's recent death has left a big hole in the basic structure of NBC's "Bonanza."

David Canary was brought back to the series almost immediately and Tim Matheson, once in "The Virginian" cast, will be introduced as a regular in the fourth or fifth episode of the fall season. He will play Griff King, an ex-convict brought to the ranch by Ben Cartwright. Young Mitch Vogel will continue as a regular for a third season.

But the Cartwright clan that began with four is down to two—Lorne Greene and Michael Landon.

Timely Quotes

WHY WE SAY

SAND: The Latin word for sand is Arena. The original arenas were the sites of gladiator contests in Rome. The floor of the amphitheaters were covered with sand to soak up the spilled blood of the contestants.

ELATED OVER VERDICT — A happy trio leaves the Federal Building in Tacoma, Wash., after all charges of bribery, conspiracy and mail fraud were dismissed by a Federal Judge against San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto (C). With Alioto are his co-defendants, former Washington State Attorney General John J. O'Connell (R) and his former aide, George K. Faler. After the case was dismissed on the grounds of insufficient evidence, Alioto said he is the only elected official in the United States "with a certified record of purity." (UPI TELEPHOTO)

'We Intend Staying'... S. Viets in Quang Tri

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese marines pushed further into Quang Tri Province today in the first operation by Saigon government forces to recapture territory taken by North Vietnamese forces in the 81-day Communist offensive.

Military sources said the marines "intend staying" in the northernmost province of South Vietnam. President Nguyen Van Thieu announced Monday a three-month campaign to force all North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam "permanently."

"We intend staying (ir Quang Tri province)", a military adviser said. "We intend pushing through as far as we can until we run into too much resistance, then moving our line up here."

It was the first move by the South Vietnamese government to wrest back territory captured by the Communists in their offensive which began nearly three months ago. More than 2,000 South Vietnamese Marines were committed to the drive in Quang Tri and 123 Communist troops were reported killed Monday.

Near An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, two Americans were killed when their AH1 Cobra helicopter was shot down today while flying support for a relief column seven miles south of the long besieged city near Highway 13.

Military sources said the Cobra was apparently downed by a Soviet-built SA7 heat-seeking missile.

U.S. B52 bombers carried out a near record 11 strikes and dropped more than 1,000 tons of bombs in front of the advancing South Vietnamese Marines, in Quang Tri who also called in extensive fighter-bomber strikes.

Hanoi Radio said today that two American warplanes including a B52 were shot down over North Vietnam Monday and today. The Communist Vietnam News Agency (VNA) said the B52 was shot down Monday and an A7 fighter-bomber was brought down in Ninh Binh province early today. The report said the kills brought to 3,661 the total of U.S. warplanes downed over North Vietnam for the war.

China's Southern Ports Closed to Red Shipping

LONDON (AP) — China has closed its southern ports to Soviet ships loaded with war supplies for North Vietnam but is still allowing ships from other Communist countries to land supplies for Hanoi, authorities in touch with both Peking and Moscow reported today.

Peking's reason, according to informants putting out the Chinese line, is that the Soviets are unwilling to risk their new relationship with the United States by challenging President Nixon's mining of North Vietnam's ports.

Moscow's version, as told by diplomats from Soviet bloc countries, is that the Chinese are easing up on their support for the North Vietnamese in favor of a more flexible international policy.

The U.S. mining of North Vietnam's ports has been condemned by both Peking and Moscow as illegal interference with navigation on the high seas. Informants in touch with the Chinese say Peking considers that Moscow has the obligation to challenge the mining, and that failure to do so implies tacit acceptance.

The Chinese reportedly argue that the Soviet Union has the means and the equipment with which to foil the American mining while China does not. In Peking's view, therefore, Moscow's failure to accept the challenge can only mean that its relationship with Washington is deemed to transcend its responsibility to Hanoi.

The informants say that as Peking sees it, the smaller East European countries lack the power to challenge the Americans, therefore their cargoes for Hanoi are being accepted in Chinese ports.

For their part, the Russians reportedly contend that Peking's attitude is consistent with other signs suggesting China is moving away from its obligation to help Hanoi. This is cited as one of the factors that has led Moscow to help in the search for a political settlement of the Vietnam War.

Arms Spending Increase Issue In Debate Over Arms Treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The administration's argument that arms spending must rise—not fall—in the face of the Moscow missile accords has become the central issue in the Senate debate over approval of the agreements.

Ratification of the arms limitation treaty is seen as certain. But supporters contend last month's agreements mean less than meet the eye if—as Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., put it Monday—they are used "as an excuse to increase our store of offensive weapons."

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, the chief advocate of what critics call the "full steam ahead" attitude, went to Capitol Hill today to argue his point that only an increase in U.S. military strength will give the Soviets a reason to negotiate further limitations of arms deployment and ultimately to agree on actual disarmament.

Two weeks ago, Laird said he could not support the missile limitation agreements unless Congress voted a $1.3 billion increase in the defense budget in the new fiscal year for developing a new supersonic bomber and a submarine carrying long-range missiles.

Laird was expected to be asked exactly what he meant by that when he faced questions from the Senate Armed Services Committee. It was unclear whether he meant he personally or the administration itself would withhold support for ratification if the defense budget were cut.

When Secretary of State William P. Rogers was asked those questions Monday, he passed the buck to Laird.

But he also argued that a decision to cut defense spending now would lead the Russians to wonder why they should negotiate further agreements.

Justice Department Bows To Court Wiretap Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bowing to a Supreme Court mandate, the Justice Department has ordered a halt to wiretapping in domestic-security cases where no surveillance warrant was obtained beforehand.

Striking down a key part of the Nixon administration's law-enforcement program, the court ruled 8 to 0 Monday that a judge's consent is necessary before the government may eavesdrop on suspected domestic radicals.

"The price of lawful public dissent must not be a dread of subjection to an unchecked surveillance power," wrote Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., a Nixon administration appointee.

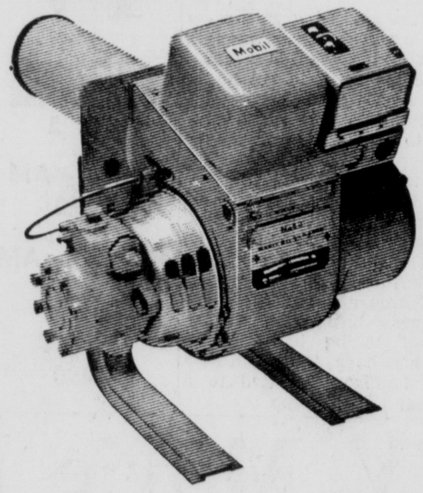

Within hours, Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst "directed the termination of all electronic surveillance in cases involving domestic security that conflict with the court's opinion."

Kleindienst said the Internal Security Division of Justice is reviewing pending cases and will recommend whether information obtained by wiretapping should be disclosed to defendants or whether charges against the suspects should be dismissed.

The attorney general said the department will work closely with Congress in drawing new guidelines and procedures for court-approved electronic surveillance in domestic cases.

Justice Powell delivered the wiretap opinion in a case involving a White Panther accused of dynamiting a Central Intelligence Agency branch office.
